“INDIAN TERRITORY.”

The lands comprised in the so-called “Indian Territory,” in which OKLAHOMA is situated, were embraced originally in such of the territory known as the “Louisiana purchase” (ceded by France to the United States by the treaty of April 30, 1803) as lay east and west of the Mississippi river and not within the States of Missouri and Louisiana, or the territory of Arkansas, nor within any State in which the Indian title had not been extinguished, which the President of the United States might deem necessary for the reception of certain tribes, and were declared by the acts of May 28, 1830, and June 30, 1834, should be “taken and deemed to be the ‘Indian country.’”

The causes which coerced or induced the creation of this “Indian country” were individual rapacity and greed, supported by State usurpation and federal tyranny or injustice.

For many years, in 1828, in Georgia and Alabama, the Cherokee, Seminole, and Creek tribes or nations of Indians had been established on lands secured to them by treaties with the United States, but on the reported discovery of gold about that time, or probably earlier, in the Indian regions of those States the white man, incited by cupidity, began to encroach on or invade the Indian lands in pursuit of the aura sacra. Many outrages attended this invasion. The Indians very naturally complained. This invasion being supported by the State authorities, the Indians appealed to the national executive for the protection guaranteed them by their treaties with the United States. What protection or redress they obtained from that high functionary may be gathered from a brief synopsis of a characteristic debate in the United States Senate in May, 1834, on a memorial of the Cherokees. The memorial, signed by their principal chief and other delegates, and presented by the Senator from Delaware, Hon. Jno. M. Clayton, complained :

That notwithstanding the faith of treaties, the obligations of the laws and the solemn decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in their favor, the President of the United States has not only refused to protect them against the oppressions of the State of Georgia, but is exerting his power on the side of their oppressors and co-operating with them in the work of destruction; that under these laws in prior times they had been protected by the national executive; that they had under that protection become Christians and had advanced in civilization, enjoying blessings which had been converted into instruments of the keenest torture; that cupidity had fastened its eye upon their lands and their homes, and is seeking by force and by every variety of oppression and wrong to expel them from their firesides and to tear them from all that had become dear to them, and declared that a detail of their sufferings would make a history, &c.

Mr. Clayton moved the reference of the memorial to the Committee on Indian affairs.

Mr. Forsythe, of Georgia, resisted its reception and reference. All he saw in the memorial and its recital of sufferings and wrongs was “the impudent audacity of the head of the Cherokee tribe," an independent and foreign nation, "come to beard the Government." His indignation was expressed in strong language.

Hon. Henry Clay, of Kentucky supported the motion to receive the memorial. He said he should not go into the general question of the horrible grievances which had been inflicted upon the Indians by that arbitrary policy which trampled upon treaties and the faith of the nation; but he did hope that the Senate would not consent to close its doors against the humble petition presented by these poor Indians in relation to abuses which had been practised upon them by another branch of the government.

Other Senators urged a like view.

Mr. Frelinghuysen did not see the evidence of their "insolence." It was the duty of Congress to see whether they had been wronged. The Senator from Georgia represented a State which had crushed them as a nation, and was now endeavoring to shut them out because they represented themselves as the Cherokee nation. They had heretofore been denied that title; they had been called "poor devils," and now because they called themselves a nation Congress were to shut their ears against them. He would let them call themselves the "Cherokee nation:" it was all that was left of them. Georgia had stripped them of everything else, &c.

Mr. Forsythe, of Georgia reiterated his objections and other Senators on the same side sustained the executive branch of the government in its acts of oppression.

Hon. Daniel Webster, of Massachusetts, said, "Strike, but hear!" had upon one occasion been the expression of patient endurance to arbitrary power. Did these people represent themselves as an independent nation? Certainly not! Hard words were not strong arguments, and "insolent, audacious, presumptuous" Cherokees proved nothing. These Indians stood in a peculiar relation to this country. They were in some sort independent, but we did not admit that they were absolutely so. We did not permit them to form European alliances, nor to sell their lands excepting to ourselves. Why, then, could not the Senate receive their petition. There was no sovereignty about them. The different States of the Union petitioned, and did any one suppose there was more independence in the Cherokee tribe than among the several States. But the case did not stop here. If the Indians had a grievance, if the treaties had not been fulfilled, if the large sums appropriated for their benefit had been misapplied, only to Congress could the Indians go for redress. The case was just the same as if presented by individuals whose right to petition could not be denied. Mr. W. was sorry to hear from the gentleman from Georgia that the Cherokee chief had got possession of "the purse and sword," but in that he was only following the example of his white neighbors. The error of the gentleman from Georgia consisted in his understanding of the word "nation" in its common acceptation, while every one else knew that "nation" in this case did not imply entire independence. The gentleman's argument rested entirely on a false foundation, when "nation" in this sense means a tribe of people controlled and protected by Congress, not such a nation as France, Spain, or any other foreign country.

The "friends of the Indians and justice" were powerless to protect them. "The earth and the fullness thereof" were by divine right the peculiar spolia of the white man.

The excitement ran high, involving Congress, the State and the national authorities, and at one time bloodshed and civil war seemed imminent. The fiat was: "The Indians must go! The 'poor devils' must surrender their lands and homes to the white men coveting them." Under treaties practically forced from these helpless people, these Indians, to whom the transfer was most repugnant, were removed to the new "Indian country." Other Indian tribes, at different dates, were also located on the same Indian domain, all of them involving heavy expenditures of the national treasure, attended by charges of corruption in their disbursements.

The original boundaries of the new country, estimated in 1850 as embracing 195,000 square miles, or 124,800,000 acres, have been greatly reduced by the formation of new States. What is left of it lies between the parallels of 34° and 37° north latitude and the 94° 30' and 100° meridi-ans of longitude west. It is bounded on the north by Kansas, on the east by Missouri and Arkansas, on the south by Texas, and on the west by Texas and the so-called "Public Land Strip." It is estimated by the General Land Office to contain 63,253 square miles or 40,481,600 acres. Besides the five civilized tribes or nations, ("the Cherokees, Creeks, Chickasaws, Choctaws, and Seminoles,") the following Indians are located on reservations within the territory: The Osages, Kansas, (Kaws,) Pawnees, Sacs and Foxes, Pottawatomies, Tonkawas, Poncas, Otoes and Missourias, Iowas, Kickapoos, Cheyennes and Arapahoes, Wichitaws, Kiowas, Comanches and Apaches, etc., comprising a population of 10,374, located on reservations containing 11,685,035 acres. The following table is taken from the annual report of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for 1886, showing the whole number of acres in the Indian Territory east and the whole number west of longitude 98°, and the distribution of population:

Total number of acres in Indian Territory.	41,102,546

The following is from the same report respecting the five civilized tribes or nations:

*Exclusive of lands west of the Arkansas River.

Or a total area of 19,785,781 acres and a population of 61,000. Admitting this enumeration of the Indian population to be correct, and allowing each Indian 160 acres, ($61,000 \times 160 = 9,760,000$) would leave an actual surplusage of land of 10,025,781 acres in the domain of these five tribes alone. But Mr. Struble, of Iowa, in a speech in the House of Representatives, June 3, 1883, in a table including the population and acreage of all the tribes in this territory, and allowing each Indian 160 acres, shows an actual surplusage of 28,578,990 acres. Mr. Struble adds:

These statistics of population are probably greatly exaggerated, besides embracing several thousand "white Indians" and white laborers who work for the Indians and 6000 manumitted slaves. Robert L. Owen, U. S. Indian agent at Union Agency, Muscogee, Ind. Ter., in his report for 1885, estimates that there are among the five civilized tribes alone 5000 white Indian citizens and 17,000 white farm laborers. John

Q. Tufts, U. S. Indian agent at same place for the year preceding (1884) reports that there were at the date of his report 16,000 white laborers among these tribes.

CLIMATE, SOIL, VEGETATION, ETC.

The topography of the territory is described in general terms as a vast plain with a gradual slope towards the east, the only considerable elevations being the Wichita mountains in the southwest, and some spurs of the Ozark and Washita ranges in the east, and is drained by the Arkansas and Red rivers and their numerous affluents. The Arkansas enters it from the north near the 97th meridian, and, running through the northeast portion in a southeasterly direction, passes into Arkansas at Ft. Smith. It is navigable at certain seasons to Ft. Gibson. The Canadian, having its rise in New Mexico, and the Cimarron, having its rise in Kansas, principal tributaries of the Arkansas, traverse the entire territory from west to east. The Red river washes the southern border, and receives the Washita, a Texan stream, and numerous tributaries. It is navigable during the greater part of the year for small steamers.

The climate is described as "beautiful," "superb," "mild," "delightful," and "healthy." The average mean temperature is from 50° to 60°: in the coldest seasons the thermometer rarely falls below 20° or 30°. The atmosphere is dry: altitude of about 1600 feet.

In all parts good lands are plentiful. Its virgin soil, "taken all in all," surpasses that of the States, and much of it in the eastern and central parts is declared to be the richest on the continent, "the finest in the world." The river bottoms of the east, the home of the five civilized tribes, are broad, level and fertile, and its prairies, uplands, and wood lands are richly productive of all farm crops. Some portions of the northwest is arid, producing so far only "sage brush and cacti." The western section, although as a whole not so productive as the eastern, is yet excellent farm land, and very fruitful of all vegetable and cereal crops. Even its broken and rugged parts are excellent grazing areas; all kinds of stock thrive on their nutritious grasses. Red and yellow plums, delicious strawberries, large sweet grapes, dewberries, raspberries, and blackberries grow wild in the greatest profusion, and its soil and situation are adapted to and gives promise of extensive fruit culture.

Throughout the eastern and in the central sections along the streams timber is everywhere abundant. The northwest generally is barren of timber forests, but along the streams and on the hills timber is plentiful. From the Arkansas to the Brazos river, there extends a forest belt called the "Cross Timbers," estimated at from 30 to 5 miles in breadth, separating the richly "fruitful lands" of the eastern and central parts from the only less productive table lands of the west, and a timber belt of hickory, walnut, oak, pecan, etc., estimated at about 75 miles in width reaches across the territory from the northeast to the southwest. Nor is there absolutely a dearth in any part of timber for ordinary domestic purposes.

GAME.

The Territory has long been famous for its hunting and fishing grounds. The buffalo has disappeared and the antelope has become scarce. But along its streams and in its forests, mountain lions, black and brown bears, red and grey foxes, panthers, wolves, wild boars, raccoons, opossums, wild cats, minks, otters, wild turkeys, sage hens or prairie chickens, quail, snipe, rice birds and many other game animals are found. Fish of many varieties abound in the streams—salmon, bass, perch, croppies, catfish, suckers, etc., and to the hunter and sportsman furnish both pleasure and profit.

INDIAN RESERVATIONS.

The surface of the Cheyenne and Arapahoe reservation, in its leading features, is high, rolling prairie, rising at some places into almost mountainous elevations. It is broken by but little timber. Its lower bottom lands produce abundantly. Its high prairies and cañons, in early spring, are covered with beds of gorgeous flowers in great variety, and their luxuriant nutritious grasses, with a plentiful water supply from the Canadian and Washita rivers and their tributaries, create extensive ranges for horses and stock of all kinds. Its soil, with the exception of the sand hills, is naturally rich, and all it requires to make them productive of all farm crops is the necessary rainfall or irrigation. The climate is mild and equable, the nights being cool and pleasant, and the rainfall is annually increasing.

The lands of the Ponca reservation situated in the Arkansas, Salt Fork, and Chikaskia valleys, are described as abundantly watered and well timbered, a large proportion of it being rich bottom land, producing heavy crops of all grains and vegetables; its natural resources, if developed, would render these Indians independent and rich.

The lands of the Otoe and Missouri reservation are regarded as inferior to those of the adjoining Ponca reservation. Good agricultural land, however, is to be had in Red Rock and other valleys of this reservation, as is also rich grazing land.

TRESPASSING CRIMINALS.

Parts of this Territory, along its borders, have long been abodes of refuge for the vilest and most desperate criminals—for murderers, horse-thieves, gamblers, felons of every character, and the lowest prostitutes. No law apparently could reach them. No competent court or authority within its limits in which they might be adequately punished or held for extradition.

When these criminals became offensive, committed some outrage against or encroached on the resident Indians, they were summarily removed by the military and sometimes taken to Fort Smith, Ark., and punished, but in many cases they again escaped into the Territory. An United States court created for the Territory at the last session of Congress, and the enforcement of recent acts for the punishment of crime within its limits, and for the arrest of fugitives, will probably greatly mitigate this evil.

MINERALS.

The mineral or mining possibilities of the Territory are but little known. Prospecting has been very light. In Oklahoma proper salt and gypsum in large quantities, as also great fields of mica, have been discovered. Silver and lead have been found near Ft. Sil, and gold, probably some old Spanish mines, near Purcell; also granite deposits and building stone in quality rivaling eastern granite. Good bituminous coal, excellent for domestic purposes, is abundant, and some of it has long been mined. The extensive coal fields of the McAlester region have for fifteen years largely supplied the Missouri Pacific railroad with coal, and reliable authorities believe in the existence of great mineral wealth in the Territory.

RAILROADS.

Railroad enterprise is rapidly opening communication with all parts of the Territory, and will greatly facilitate its settlement and the development of its resources.

A division of the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe railroad (the Gulf, Colorado, and Santa Fe road), from Arkansas City, Kan., runs south to Gainesville, Texas, through the Ponca and the Otoe and Missouria reservations, Oklahoma proper, and the Chickasaw nation. This line strikes Oklahoma City on the north fork of the Canadian river, Purcell on the Canadian river, and passes through Washita and Ardmore. The Southern Kansas division of the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe road leaves the Kansas line at Kiowa, runs across the northwest corner of the Territory, extending into the Texas panhandle, and will be ultimately constructed to El Paso, Union Pacific Railway, Southern branch, running from the southern boundary of Kansas south through the Indian Territory, along the valley of Grand and Arkansas rivers, to Ft. Smith, Ark. This road is now known as the Missouri, Kansas, and Pacific.

Crossing the line at Waggoner, and following the Arkansas river, the Kansas, Arkansas Valley, Little Rock, and Ft. Smith is extending its road to Arkansas City.

Two branches of the St. Louis and San Francisco road extend from Carthage, Mo., into the Territory; one branch entering from Newton County, Mo., crosses the Missouri, Kansas, and Texas at Vinita, and, spanning the Arkansas river, proceeds to Sepulpa. On the north side of the Arkansas river, from Tulsa, the road will be extended through Oklahoma proper, via Ft. Reno and Darlington, to the Canadian river; there it will strike the proposed Atlantic and Pacific. The other branch of the St. Louis and San Francisco road, entering the Territory at Ft. Smith, passes into Texas through the Choctaw nation.

A division of the Missouri Pacific railroad (the Missouri, Kansas, and Texas) enters the Territory near its northeast corner, at Chetopa, Kan., and, running through the Cherokee, Creek, and Choctaw nations in a southwesterly direction, strikes the Texan line at Denison, on the south bank of the Red river. This line traverses the great coal fields of the Territory, passing the towns Vinita, Muscogee, McAlester, Eufaula, Kiowa, and Atoke.

The Chicago, Kansas, and Nebraska railroad (the Rock Island road) is building two important branches; one extending from Liberal, Kan., through No Man's Land, to Texas, and the other southwesterly from Caldwell, Kan., to Wichita Falls, Texas, through the Cherokee outlet and the reservations of the Cheyennes and Arapahoes, Wichitas, and the Kiowas and Comanches, passing through Ft. Reno, Darlington, Anadarko, and Ft. Sill.

The Atlantic and Pacific also proposes to construct a line following the Canadian river, running east and west along its north bank.

INDIAN AND CATTLE TRAILS.

The route from Arkansas City, Kan., is regarded as the best and most practicable for the Oklahoma colonists. From that city the Santa Fe railroad runs directly through the heart of the Oklahoma country, and from it converge many Indian roads or trails. Among these are the Kiowa and Comanche trail, running southwesterly for twenty miles, thence south through the Nez Perce reservation, and thence through the Cherokee ceded lands along a divide to the north line of Oklahoma proper; great trails to the Cheyenne and Arapahoe reservations, and to the Seminole and Cherokee nations; roads to Beaver City, in the Public Land Strip, and to the Texas panhandle.

A stage road, or the Abilene, Kan., cattle trail, runs from the Wichita Indian agency, on the Washita river north, to Wichita, Kan.; while the great Texas cattle trail, running northwesterly, traverses the reservation of the Kiowas and Comanches, and that of the Cheyenne and Arapahoes, and the Cherokee Outlet. Numerous minor roads and trails intersect the Territory.

INDIAN GRAZING LEASES.

In the debate in the House of Representatives of June 3, 1886, Mr. Struble, of Iowa, in a very able, logical, and exhaustive speech, cited a table, prepared by the Secretary of the Interior, of the leases of lands in the Indian Territory, including the Cherokee outlet, for grazing purposes. They are thirty-two in number, and embrace an estimated area of 12,018,234 acres. Of this large area about one-half, or 6,000,000 acres, were in the Cherokee outlet, leased to the Cherokee Strip Live Stock Association; 3,832,120 acres were in the Cheyenne and Arapahoe reservation, 380,000 acres in the Osage reservation, and the remainder (1,806,114 acres) in the reservations of the Kiowas, Comanches, and Wichitas, the Sacs and Foxes, the Poncas, the Otoes and Missourias, the Pawnees, Ottowas, etc. It is estimated, also, that about 2,000,000 acres in Oklahoma proper were covered by these leases. Most of them were dated in 1883; some were dated in 1884, and others in 1885. They extended over periods of two, five, six, and ten years, and embrace rental rates varying all the way from two to fifty cents per acre.

These leases are all without the authority of law or the sanction or approval of the Government.

The leases to the Cherokee Strip Live Stock Association, covering 6,000,000 acres in the Cherokee outlet, and probably 2,000,000 in Oklahoma proper and adjacent country, were relet to or subdivided among nearly one hundred minor cattle companies. Thus our enterprising cattle kings, simply through the usurped powers of the Indians in leasing the lands, monopolize and parcel out among themselves these large areas of valuable land, to the exclusion of thousands of homeseekers, who would gladly settle and cultivate them.

The lease of the Cherokee Strip Live Stock Association expired by its terms in 1888. Nor has it been renewed. A number, but not all, of the leases in the Cheyenne and Arapahoe reservation were vacated by President Cleveland's proclamation of July 23, 1885, and many cattle were removed. Nevertheless, cattle in large herds still range the Cherokee strip. "Cattle on a thousand hills" in Oklahoma still graze and fatten, and the cattle men, apparently secure in their impunity, advertise their ranches and stock in southern Kansas journals. These cattle men are clearly intruders—unlawful occupants of the land. The Indians are precluded by statute from alienating or leasing their lands for any purpose without the consent of the Government. Nor can the President or the Department approve these leases without the authority of Congress, That Congress has steadily refused. Consequently, the leases under which these lands are held are as unlawful, as they are opposed by the unvarying policy of the Government. That is the opinion of Attorneys General Devens and Garland, and the cattlemen, with their herds, our hyksos or nomad kings, veritable types of semi-barbarism, who thus usurp these lands, excluding the agents or forces of civilization, should be summarily ejected. That is demanded alike by the real purpose of the Indian treaties and by justice to our homeless people.

PUBLIC LAND STRIP OR NO MAN'S LAND.

The public land strip, included in the bill for the organization of Oklahoma Territory, lies within the 100th and the 103d meridian of longitude west, and latitude $36^{\circ} 30'$ and 37° north, bounded on the north by Colorado and Kansas; on the east by the Cherokee outlet; on the west by New Mexico, and on the south by Texas. It is 167 miles in length by $34\frac{1}{2}$ miles in width, and contains an area of $5,761\frac{1}{2}$ square miles, or 3,687,360 acres.

Until the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo of February, 1848, this strip of land formed a part of the Mexican possessions claimed by Texas, and was, under the act of September 9, 1850, included in the territory for which the United States paid Texas $10,000,000.

By the treaty of May 6, 1828, besides setting apart 7,000,000 acres for the use of the Cherokee Indians, the United States also guaranteed to that nation "a perpetual outlet" west, and a free, unmolested use of all the country west of the western boundary of the above lands "as far west as the sovereignty of the United States and their right of soil extended." The Cherokees claimed this so-called "Public Land Strip" as the "western outlet" provided for in the treaty of 1828. It was designated on the official maps of the General Land Office, but without authority, up to 1869, as a part of the Indian Territory, but on January 29, 1886, it was held by the General Land Office that, as the jurisdiction of the United States at the date of the above treaty extended only to the 100th meridian, no subsequent acquisition of territory by the national government could extend the rights of the Cherokee nation beyond that limit. Hence this so-called "Public Land Strip," being west of that meridian, formed "no part of the Indian Territory or the Cherokee outlet."

Subsequently, up to 1869 and since, also without any proper or legal authority, this body of land has been described on the official maps as the "Public Land Strip."

In the Thirty-third Congress, first session, in the Senate, the original bill and the substitute reported from the Committee on Territories, to organize the Territory of Nebraska, established as its southern boundary the line of $36^{\circ} 30'$ north latitude, its eastern boundary extending to the western boundary line of Missouri. But on January 23, 1854, Mr. Stephen A. Douglas, chairman of the Senate Committee on Territories, stated that the attention of the committee had been called by the chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs to the fact that the line of $36^{\circ} 30'$ "would divide the Cherokee country, whereas, by taking the parallel of 37° north latitude as the southern boundary of the proposed Territory, the line would run between the Cherokees and Osages, and that the Committee had therefore concluded to vary the southern boundary so as not to divide the Cherokee nation by the terms of the bill." (Cong. Globe, 33d Cong., first sess., p. 221.)

The establishment of the line of 37° north latitude as the southern boundary of Nebraska, which subsequently, on the division of Nebraska into two Territories, (Nebraska and Kansas,) also because the southern boundary of Kansas, consequently left this body of land in its present isolated situation.

This land strip formed a part of what was once described as "the Great American Desert." Cattlemen and their partisans still ridicule it as "an insignificant sandy cactus patch" "a desert," almost unfit for human habitation. But less interested and consequently better and more reliable authorities, the actual settlement of nearly all its lands by a thriving people, the existence within its limits of towns or villages, a population estimated at 15,000, and a quasi government with its headquarters or capital at Beaver on the North Canadian river, all expose the untruthful character and selfish purposes of the story of the cattle bosses, who for many years have with their herds monopolized so large a proportion of its fine grazing areas, and would now defeat its settlement by actual homeseekers.

✓ The face of the country is described as broken, as "a gentle slope," alternating "from sandy plains and treeless prairies in the west to hilly country and well timbered regions in the east." From the foothills of the Rocky mountains the trend of the land and the streams is in a southeasterly direction, and the Washita, Sansboy, and Poteau mountain groups are situated in its central parts, chiefly between the Canadian and Red rivers.

Its lands, lying beyond a timber belt (originally called "The Cross Timbers," varying from 30 to 5 miles in width and supposed at one time to bound the timber region), are naturally rich and fertile, range at a high altitude, are comparatively dry, and proper irrigation is all that is needed for their successful cultivation to all cereal and vegetable crops. Ninety per cent. of the entire "strip," it is estimated, can be profitably cultivated.

Water is described as everywhere abundant in springs and clear running streams. It can be found anywhere by digging. Wells, averaging a depth of 30 feet, furnish an inexhaustable supply, and artesian water has been struck, rendering irrigation of the land by the farmer easy and profitable.

Its possibilities as a fruit growing country are also great. Delicious wild plums are plentiful. A large, luscious grape grows wild in great quantities, and the "strip" is regarded as a possible rival to California in grape culture.

Its climate is described as colder than that of the Indian Territory; its low mean temperature of about 55° being largely due to cold northerners from the Rocky mountains. The winters are short, with plenty of sunshine. The thermometer rarely falls below zero. Cattle graze all winter without "feed," and in the spring are turned out as bees. Rheumatism and malaria are almost unknown, and for asthma, catarrh, and pulmonary and bronchial affections the climate is unsurpassed.

The average rainfall heretofore has been about 20 inches, and is reported as annually increasing.

OKLAHOMA.

By the treaties of August 11 and 16, 1866,* the Creeks ceded to the United States the west half of their entire domain, about 3,402,428.88 acres at 30 cents per acre, and the Seminoles their entire domain, about 2,037,414.62 acres at 15 cents per acre—in all, 5,439,843.50 acres. These cessions, as stated in these treaties, were in compliance with the desire of the government to locate on them other friendly Indians and freedmen.

Accordingly, portions of the lands on the east and west of these cessions have been set apart for the occupancy and use of certain bands and tribes of friendly Indians, and it is the unappropriated lands thus ceded, situated in the center or heart of the "Indian Territory," which constitute the original "Oklahoma," or Oklahoma proper.

But the Springer bill which on February 1, 1889, passed the House of Representatives, for the organization of Oklahoma Territory, includes Oklahoma proper, "the Cherokee outlet," and the so-called "No Man's Land," or "Public Land Strip," and is described as "bounded on the west by Texas and New Mexico, on the north by Colorado and Kansas, on the east by the reservation occupied by the Cherokee tribe of Indians east of the 96th meridian of west longitude and by the Creek, Seminole, and Chickasaw reservations, and on the south by the Creek, Seminole, and Chickasaw reservations and by Texas—comprising what is known as the Public Land Strip, and all that part of the Indian Territory not actually occupied by the five civilized tribes."

Mr. Springer in his report of February 7, 1888, from the committee on Territories, describes its area as follows:

"The area in said Territory not occupied by the Indian tribes and the acreage thereof is as follows:

	Acres.
Cherokee outlet	6,022,244
Public Land Strip	3,672,640
Oklahoma lands	1,887,800
Total	11,582,684

"These areas do not include what is known as Greer county. The bill simply provides that the Territory to be organized shall be bounded on the south by the State of Texas wherever that line may be determined hereafter to be. If it should be decided that Greer county is a part of the Indian Territory and belongs to the United States it will be embraced within the provisions of the bill and the lands thereof be opened to settlement. Including this county the area of the whole Territory organized under this bill comprises 38,718 square miles, or 24,779,885 acres, an area about the size of the State of Ohio. The Indian tribes now located within said Territory by departmental orders and special acts of Congress are included within the Territory for judicial purposes, and for such other purposes as may be consistent with our treaty obligations with each of these tribes. But it is expressly provided, as stated heretofore, that nothing in the bill shall interfere with any right which any Indian tribe may now have under any treaties or agreements with the United States heretofore ratified."

* These treaties proclaimed August 11 and August 16, 1866, were made, the Seminole treaty on March 21, 1866, and the Creek treaty on June 14, 1866.

In Oklahoma proper, a rolling country with no great altitudes, no Indians have been allowed to reside nor are there any white settlements. It is absolutely uninhabited except by straggling hunters, who dare not even build a shanty from which to hunt, and by cowboys attending the herds which still manage, in defiance of executive orders for their removal, to hold their ground in some parts. The climate is "delightful;" neither too cold in winter nor too hot in summer. The lowest temperature in winter is zero, rarely falling, however, and only for short periods of a day or two, below 15° or 20° above zero.

There is no waste land in the country. On seventy-five per cent. of the land, a rich loam capable of the highest cultivation, tropical as well as all cereal and vegetable products can be readily raised, while the remainder are excellent timber and grazing lands, the luxuriant hay grasses of which, growing wild and higher than a horse's head, demonstrate the great natural fertility of the soil.

A writer in the American Field of a recent date declares: "If there is a more beautiful or more fertile spot on earth the question as to the location of the original garden of Eden is settled."

CHEROKEE OUTLET,

Sometimes called the "Cherokee Strip," embraces an area of 6,022,244 acres. By the treaty concluded May 6, 1828, and ratified May 28, 1828, Article 2, and by subsequent treaties, "the United States guarantee to the Cherokee nation 7,000,000 acres" of land and "a perpetual outlet west, and a free and unmolested use of all the country lying west of the western boundary" of the 7,000,000 acres "as far west as the Government of the United States and their right of soil extend," which, in 1828, extended only to the 100th meridian. It is bounded on the north by Kansas, on the west by the Public Land Strip and Texas, on the east by the Cherokee reservation, and on the south by the Cheyenne and Arapahoe reservation, Oklahoma proper, etc. Within its limits are neither Indians nor white settlements. Its surface is described as rolling, with no great elevations, and is watered by the Cimarron river and the Salt Fork of the Arkansas river flowing through its centre. Its luxuriant and rich grasses furnish excellent food, and its broad prairies and plains extensive ranges for stock, and with sufficient rainfall or proper irrigation its naturally fertile lands for farming purposes will rival any elsewhere.

The Cherokee National Council, on May 19, 1883, passed an act directing the principal chief (D. W. Bushyhead) to execute a lease to the "Cherokee Strip Live Stock Association," composed of wealthy capitalists of Missouri, Kansas, and other States, and incorporated under the laws of Kansas, at an annual rental of $100,000, payable semi-annually in advance, for grazing purposes, of all the unoccupied land of the Cherokee nation (about 6,000,000 acres) "being and lying west of the 96th meridian and west of the Arkansas river." The lease was dated July 5, 1883, and was to extend from October 1, 1883, over a period of five years. It expired in 1888, and has not been renewed.

PROVISIONS OF THE SPRINGER BILL.

AS IT PASSED THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, FEBRUARY 1, 1889.

BOUNDARIES OF THE TERRITORY—RIGHTS OF THE INDIANS RESERVED.

(Section 1.)

This bill (H. R. 10,614) to organize the Territory of Oklahoma, and for other purposes, while defining the boundaries (see p. 13) of the Territory, reserves to the Indians all their rights of persons and property and occupancy of lands under the laws and treaties of the United States, executive order or other lawful authority, and no lands lawfully occupied by the Indians are to be included without their consent within the limits or jurisdiction of any State or Territory, except for judicial purposes as provided, reserving also the authority of the United States to make any regulation or law respecting such Indians, their lands, property, or other rights.

TERRITORIAL OFFICERS, LEGISLATURE, DELEGATE, ETC.

(Sections 2 and 3.)

The organization of a Territorial government is provided for, as also the the appointment by the President of its executive and judicial officers, and the election of a legislature and delegate to Congress, said officers after the the expiration of five years from the organization of the Territory to be selected from the bona fide residents of the Territory. The Constitution and laws of the United States not locally inapplicable are extended over the Territory; the existing local governments of the Indians are not to be disturbed, and the jurisdiction of the Territorial Supreme Court is defined as embracing all causes of action, crimes, and offenses arising within the limits of the Territory. The laws giving jurisdiction to United States courts are repealed.

PUBLIC LAND STRIP.

(Section 4.)

The Public Land Strip is declared a part of the public domain open to settlement under the homestead laws only, reserving the 16th and 36th sections in each township as school lands, but the provisions of section 2301, R. Stats., is not to apply to any entry of said land.

SETTLEMENT OF THE UNAPPROPRIATED LANDS—HOW, WHEN, BY WHOM— PRICE PER ACRE, AND AREA OF ENTRY, ETC.

(Sections 5 and 6.)

The assent in a legal manner of the Cherokees, Seminoles, and Creeks is to be obtained before the opening to sale and settlement (at $1.25 per acre, in quantities of 160 acres each, by actual settlers, bona fide citizens head of families or over 21 years of age,) of the unappropriated lands ceded by those Indians to the United States, reserving the 16th and 36th sections in each township as school lands, and no entry of lands is to be permitted prior to the assent of the Indians or before the time fixed by the President for the opening of the lands to settlement; an accurate account is to be kept of the proceeds of such sales, placed to the account of the Indians, and a commission is to ascertain whether they are entitled to further compensation.

ESTABLISHMENT OF LAND OFFICES—PAYMENTS FOR AND CONDITIONS OF ENTRY OF LAND—SOLDIERS' RIGHTS—NO BENEFITS TO RAIL-ROAD OR OTHER CORPORATIONS, ETC.

(Section 7.)

Four land offices, with the usual officers to conduct their business, are to be established by the President; all unsurveyed lands are to be surveyed and subdivided; all lands entered are to be square in form; continuous personal residence on the land, and its cultivation and improvement, for three years, in the manner prescribed by the homestead laws, are exacted as conditions of entry, and not less than 40 acres must be broken and plowed before title may be claimed or issue. Payments, where required, are to be made in four equal installments, the first within 6 months from the date of entry, the second at the expiration of 12 months, the third at the expiration of 2 years, and the fourth and last at the expiration of 3 years from date of entry. Around every section of land four rods wide are reserved as public highways, but no deduction in the amount to be paid for each quarter section is to be made by reason of such reservations. If the highway should be vacated by any competent authority the title to the respective strips is to inure to the benefit of the then owner of the tract of which it formed a part by the original survey. The rights of honorably discharged soldiers on the public lands are reserved unimpaired. No extinguishment of the Indian title for the benefit directly or indirectly of any railroad or other corporation, or any assignee or mortgagee of any road or corporation, is permitted. All acts of any officer or agent of the United States and of the Indians granting lands, or which might validate or give effect to any grant of land, to any railroad or other corporation, are declared null and void, and all lands and rights granted to the Atlantic and Pacific R. R. Co. by the act of January 27, 1866, are declared forfeited.

HOMESTEADS ONLY TO ACTUAL SETTLERS, CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES—
LANDS ENTERED NOT LIABLE TO DEBTS PRIOR TO FINAL PROOF—DECLARATORY STATEMENT, ETC.

(Section 8.)

Homestead forms and the general principles and provisions of the homestead laws, except three instead of five years' continuous residence on and cultivation of and payment for the land, are to apply to all entries, and patents will only issue to bona fide citizens at date of final proof and payment. Final proof and payment, except in cases of contest, are required to be made within three months after the expiration of three years from date of entry, and on default in that or in payment of any installment of the purchase money when due, the entry is made liable to cancellation and the money paid forfeited to the United States. All sales, leases, conveyances, and mortgages of the public lands prior to final proof and payment, and the register's or receiver's record of the same, are forbidden and declared absolutely null and void; the lands entered are not liable for any indebtedness or obligation incurred previous to issue of patent, and all assignments, transfers, and mortgages of unpatented lands are declared to be at the risk of the assignees, transferres, and mortgagees.

Homesteads only to actual settlers. No preferred right to entry will be allowed to any person by reason of claim of occupancy prior to the application to enter, except in cases of actual occupancy and continued residence on the land to the date of application to enter. No right of an alleged settler as such shall attach to land until the date of his actual bona fide and continuous residence on the land. Declaratory statement must contain a true and full recital of the date and facts of residence and last place of residence prior thereto, and detailed description of improvements, all verified by the oath of the applicant and at least one credible witness before the register or receiver of the proper land office as to all facts, except that proof of the applicants place of residence may be made before any officer authorized by law to administer oaths. False swearing thereto subjects affiant to the same penalty as if sworn to before the proper register or receiver.

TOWNSITES—PARKS OR RESERVATIONS.

(Section 9.)

The Secretary of the Interior is authorized to reserve any public land as townsites for any existing or prospective town, city, or village, in areas not exceeding 640 acres each, in compact form, or such additional area in governmental subdivisions as may wholly or in part be occupied as a town, city, or village site. All applications to enter land within half mile of a railroad constructed, or within that distance of a railroad not constructed, but where its map of location was filed with the Secretary at the date of application to enter the land, must be approved by the Secretary, as also of any land on which at date of application is a town or village settlement, and no settlement in advance of survey by proper authority shall give any right as against the power of the Secretary to reserve townsites, the object being to secure to the inhabitants of all towns, cities, and villages the benefits and profits arising from sales of lots therein. Lots in any townsite are by the Secretary to be offered, sold, and conveyed under the provisions of section 2,382 and 2,383 of Revised Statutes. Proceeds of sales of lots in townsites, less the amounts due the Indians, are to constitute a school fund, to be expended by the Secretary in the erection of school buildings and the support of public schools, until the legal incorporation of the respective towns, cities or villages, when the title to unsold portions of such sites will vest in the municipality and the proceeds thereof, as well as any balance in the hands of the Secretary, paid to the local authorities and be devoted to public purposes within the corporate limits. The Secretary is empowered to make all needful rules and regulations to carry into effect any details not specifically provided for. In all surveys of townsites are to be reservations for a park or parks, of substantially equal areas if more than one, and for other public purposes, embracing in the aggregate not less than 10 nor more than 20 acres; but no deduction is allowed on account of these reservations in the sums to be paid for said townsites, and patents for such reservations shall be issued to the towns respectively when organized as municipalities.

LANDS TO BE OPENED TO SETTLEMENT—SECRETARY TO FIX PRICE OF LAND,
NOT TO EXCEED $1.25 PER ACRE.

(Section 10.)

All lands not required by law, treaty stipulations, executive order, or right of occupancy for the use of any Indian tribe, or which may be relinquished as an Indian reservation, are to be opened to settlement, and the President is authorized to fix to actual settlers the price of lands purchased from the Indians not to exceed $1.25 per acre, the proceeds to constitute a fund for the benefit of the Indians.

COMMISSION TO NEGOTIATE CESSION OF LANDS AND ASCERTAIN WHAT COMPENSATION MAY BE DUE THE INDIANS.

(Section 11.)

A commission of five, not more than three of whom are to be of the same political party, is to be appointed by the President, to open negotiations with the Cherokees, Seminoles, and Creeks to secure their consent in a legal manner, to the opening to settlement of the unoccupied land ceded to the United States by the Indian treaties of 1866, and to ascertain what additional sum may be due those Indians in compensation for the lands thus ceded. The commission is authorized to enter into such agreements with the Indians as it may deem necessary to accomplish this purpose, subject to the approval or rejection of the President. The compensation of the commission is fixed at $10 per day, with traveling expenses and stationery and postage, and is allowed a Secretary at a per diem of $6 and traveling expenses.

UNLAWFUL AND FRAUDULENT ENTRIES—MISDEMEANOR AND PENALTY.

(Section 12.)

Settlement on any lands opened to settlement by this act, or to directly or indirectly procure the settlement of any such land by any person, with a view of afterwards acquiring title to said lands from said occupant for himself or for any company, association or corporation, is declared unlawful and fraudulent. Parties to such fraudulent settlement are declared guilty of a misdemeanor, and the penalty on conviction fixed at $1000 fine or twelve month's imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court.

UNLAWFUL LEASES AND REMOVAL OF LESSEES.

(Section 13.)

All leases of lands belonging to the United States, or held in common by any of the Indian tribes within the Territory, including the Cherokee strip west of the 96th meridian, whether controlled by persons or by corporations or others, except such leases as are held for the purpose of cultivating the soil strictly for farming purposes, are declared null and void and contrary to public policy; and the removal from said lands of all such lessees, and all persons illegally occupying the same, is made the duty of the President immediately after the passage of the act.

REPEAL OF ALL RAILROAD LAND GRANTS AND FORFEITURE OF RAILROAD LANDS.

(Section 14.)

The grants to the State of Kansas in aid of the construction of the Kansas and Neosho Valley Railroad and its extension to the Red river, and in aid of the construction of the Southern Branch of the Union Pacific railway and telegraph from Ft. Riley, Kans., to Ft. Smith, Ark., and all other grants for railroad purposes within the Indian Territory and Public Land Strip, except for the right of way and necessary stations now provided by law, are repealed. And all and any rights to said lands are forfeited to the United States; and no railroad company now organized or hereafter to be organized shall ever acquire any lands in aid of the construction of its road, or in consequence of any railroad already constructed, either from the United States or any Indian tribe or from the territorial government within the limits of the proposed Territory of Oklahoma.

ALL INDEBTEDNESS FOR PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS PROHIBITED.

(Section 15.)

The legislature and the counties, towns, and cities of the Territory are prohibited to create or contract any indebtedness for any work of public improvements, or in aid of any railroad constructed or to be constructed, or to subscribe for or purchase any shares of stocks of any railroad company or corporation.

LANDS OF GREER COUNTY EXCEPTED.

(Section 16.)

The provisions of the act not to apply to any lands within the limits of what is known as Greer county until the determination of the question of title thereto in favor of the United States.

The aim and effect of the bill is in favor of the actual settlement of the land by bona fide homesteaders—its actual and permanent occupation and cultivation by American citizens in small farms of 160 acres each, excluding all cattle, railroad, and other syndicates or bosses.

FIVE CIVILIZED TRIBES.

These five civilized tribes, as communities, have greatly advanced in civilization. Savagery and barbarism in their grosser forms have practically disappeared from among them. They have constitutional forms of government and system of laws based on those of our States. Many of their principal men are educated and possessed of much ability. Christian churches and the finest schools liberally supported are established among them. All the avenues or avocations of business or trade are intelligently and industriously occupied by them and in many instances with lucrative rewards, and in all the external forms of their civilization these Indians greatly resemble their white neighbors. But the wealthy among them are apparently oblivious of the oppressions and sufferings which they or their fathers endured in their early homes at the hands of the white man, and against which they so long, so loudly, and so pathetically protested, or wholly ignore them, and are afflicted with the least amiable of "the white man's ways," as manifested in their maintenance of the tribal tenure of the land, in which they emulate all the cupidity and greed of their early Saxon oppressors, supporting them with like agencies—usurpation, injustice, and tyranny. Under this tribal tenure all the land in theory is held in common by the whole community, equally owned by every member of the tribe, but are practically, in fact, monopolized by the grasping and avaricious few. Many of the wealthy cultivating tribal lands pay no rent for their use into the common treasury for the benefit of the poorer or less fortunate of their race, who, nevertheless, under this tribal tenure, have an equal share in the soil. The rich and choice lands have thus already been appropriated by the most enterprising and self-seeking. Many of their farms contain 500 and 1000 acres, abundantly stocked, and enclosed within wire fences. The proprietor of one of these immense estates of a thousand acres, under the tribal tenure, has the power to add an additional 1000 acres to his farm by excluding all others from the occupation of lands for a distance of a quarter of a mile all around the tract fenced.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs J. D. C. Atkins, in his annual report for 1886, describes a case which came within his personal observation on a visit in 1885, to the Creek nation. He says,

A case of this sort came under my personal observation on a visit to the Creek nation in 1885. I was credibly informed that one of the Creeks had under fence over 1,000 acres, and, of course, under their laws and usages, he had the right to exclude all other members of the tribe from claiming any land embraced within the limits of a quarter of a mile in width surrounding the inclosed farm of 1,000 acres, provided he made the first location. This estate was handsomely managed, with many modern methods and improvements. A costly residence stood upon it, and large, commodious barns, stables, &c., were provided. The owner cultivated this farm with laborers hired among his own race—perhaps his own kith and kin—at $16 per month, and they lived in huts and cabins on the place without a month's provisions ahead for themselves and families. They owned of course their tribal interest in the land, but the proceeds of the valuable crops which were raised by their labor swelled the plethoric pockets of the proprietor. In this instance the crops grown, in addition to large quantities of hay, consisted of 25,000 bushels of corn, fattening for market 200 head of beef cattle and 300 head of hogs. The proprietor grows annually richer, while the laborers, his own race, joint owners of the soil, even of the lands that he claims and individually appropriates, grow annually and daily poorer and less able to assert their equal ownership and tribal claim and, shall I say, constitutional privilege and treaty rights.

Commissioner Atkins adds:

Now this condition of semi-slavery, shall I call it, exists in each of the five civilized nations, and grows directly out of the holding of lands in common, and is necessarily inherent in this system of tenantry.

And Indian Agent Owens, in his annual report of 1886, also says:

The Washita valley, in the Chickasaw nation, is almost a solid farm for 50 miles. It is cultivated by white labor largely, with Chickasaw landlords. I saw one farm there said to contain 8,000 acres, another 4,000, and many other large and handsome places.

Commissioner Atkins, with some indignation, declares:

I have endeavored to obtain some reliable data as to the number of farms containing 1,000 acres which exist in the five tribes. It did not occur to me that eight times that amount of rich valley land had been appropriated by one proprietor, that another owner had 4,000 acres, and that there were "many other very large and handsome places" in the same valley, each owned by individual proprietors, but all being tribal lands. A system of laws and customs, where tribal relations exist and lands are owned in common, which permits one Indian to own so large a quantity of land, to the exclusion of all other Indians, merely because he was first to occupy it, or because he inherited it from his father, who occupied it originally, when all other Indians have equal tribal rights with the happy and fortunate possessor, needs radical reformation. Are these the sacred rights secured by treaty, which the United States are pledged to respect and defend? If so, then the United States are pledged to uphold and maintain a stupendous land monopoly and aristocracy that finds no parallel in this country, except in two or three localities in the far West; and in these instances it may be said that the titles are clear (having been obtained by purchase from the Government), however questionable may be the policy which makes it possible for one man to own unlimited quantities of land.

The only claim to these "baronial estates" are founded in usurpation—in a practical seizure of the land by the first occupant, or by inheritance in the resident from his father, who had originally spoliated the land and transmitted it to his descendants after the manner of the early feudal barons.

Here we have among these five civilized tribes, the dominant people of the Territory, with the cognizance of the United States, a grinding aristocracy of wealth, usurping the land, the basis of all power, crushing out the manhood of the majority, fixing them in a permanent and dependent or semi-servile state of ignorance and poverty, and rendering them incapable of asserting or maintaining their liberties and rights under their own system of laws.

Hence, what in effect these five civilized tribes claim from the United States in demanding protection under the intercourse laws against "the aggressions of white intruders," is the maintenance of the tyrannical usurpations by the wealthy and powerful few over the land, and that protection for fifty years they have received from the United States army in the harsh and somewhat cruel expulsion of all white intruders, such as Captains Payne and Couch and their "boomers" in their several incursions into the "Territory"—in the expulsion of all intruders except the cattle kings or cowboys, with whom for gold in the form of rent they combine in a monopoly of the land. Consequently, these powerful leaders, these grasping usurpers of the land, secure in the support of the army, employ all their great influence in resisting any modification of their tribal land tenure, all dismemberment of their territory for the purposes of white settlement, all plans for the individual allotment of land in severalty to the mass of the Indian population, under which every Indian, even of those now wandering round as day-laborers, "poor, weak, and ignorant," would be endowed with a definite and permanent home, a valid homestead invested in himself and children, which by the exercise of reasonable labor in its cultivation, would yield him a livelihood, and render him and his children respectable and independent.

No oppression or robbery of the Indian by the white man in the past or present, or in degree or character, surpasses that thus inflicted by our Indian barons on the masses of their own race. Our Indian autocrat becomes himself the spoiler of the Indian—a rival of the white man in cupidity and greed in the spoliation of his race.

It has been very justly urged that the treaties with these Indians never contemplated "an idea so un-American and absurd" as the establishment in our midst of a separate, foreign, or independent nationality or sovereignty, with absolute power to shape its forms of government or laws without regard to the surrounding civilization. Such an idea is utterly repugnant to the genius of our institutions. These Indians are simply the wards of the nation. As such they are amenable to its lawful control. They have no just right under their treaties with the United States, no right under our laws to an independent sovereignty, as inimical to our institutions, as hostile to all progress and civilization, as that attempted in Utah by the Mormon worshippers of "the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints." *

* "Mr. HERMANN, of Oregon. Is it not distinctly understood by the Indian tribes, and is it not now claimed by them, that it was the moving conditions of their treaties of cessions that their lands should be used for the permanent settlement of friendly and civilized Indians?

"Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa. The title to that land does not depend on what the Indians claim, but on the language of the treaty. Now, the treaty of cession shows the purpose for which these Indians parted with their land. Their motive was to secure money required by them to stock their farms and with which to build houses and fences. That is shown in the record. The Creeks and Seminoles ceded all their lands, including Oklahoma and the land then occupied by them, and bought of the government other land to the east, which was more fertile and better timbered. This is the land which constitutes their reservations. I do not understand, Mr. Chairman, that any thing the Indians may now claim has anything more to do with the question than a mere averment in a plea. It depends altogether on the testimony.

"Mr. HERMANN. I understand the gentleman to say that the Indians do not claim what I suggested.

"Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa. They do not claim title." * * *

"Mr. STRUBLE, of Iowa. The Indians claim everything they can claim. They are sharp fellows. They and their friends in this House are asserting that by reason of the third article in the treatise of 1866—

["Act III. In compliance with the desire of the United States to locate other Indians and freedmen thereon," the Creeks and Seminoles "cede and convey." &c.]

such an equity obtains between the government and these Indians that, although by these treaties they voluntarily parted with their legal title, we have no authority to extend our political jurisdiction over the land ceded by them in 1866; they having sold it as they allege for the sole purpose of the settlement thereon of friendly Indians.

"Mr. HERMANN. Was it not specifically stipulated that these lands were to be used for the specific purpose?

"Mr. STRUBLE. No, sir, not in terms."

Debate in House of Representatives, June 3, 1866.

Hence, the really practical issue thus raised by the usurpations, tyranny, and greedy inhumanity of the dominant classes of these five tribes or nations is not so much a legal one under their treaties as one between barbarism and the forces of civilization. Shall these Indian autocrats be allowed to fix a boundary to the progress of civilization within the republic? Shut out from their surplus lands the enterprising and thrifty civilized white man? Will the United States continue to recognize and support the long existing alliance of the autocratic Indian oppressor with the cattle kings. That is the practical issue.*

At the date of its creation, in 1830, this Indian Territory constituted a part of the "Great Far West," a part of our surplus lands on the extreme borders of the republic, outside of all civilized white settlement, and not required by any want or demand of our people. All these conditions have long since ceased to exist. The "Far West" has removed to the Pacific coast, leaving these unoccupied and fertile lands a vast wilderness in the midst of a teeming civilization. Nor has the United States now a surplus of lands; its population is increasing in an unprecedented ratio, while its public domain is rapidly diminishing, and thousands of our homeless people are demanding homes on these unoccupied Indian lands. Why should these lands be denied them? Their demand is in the interest of civilization†

It contemplates no injustice to the Indians, no removal of the Indians from their present firesides or homes, no violation of the real object or purpose of any Indian treaty. Our homeless people only ask the privilege or right to establish homes on lands unoccupied by these Indians, impossible

*"Secure in the protection of Uncle Sam; their exchequers bursting with the golden product of perpetual annuities and temporary gratuities; more fortunate than other rebel communities of the south, in that they are relieved from all care for the support of the government that upholds and protects them; with a thousand acres per capita of the richest agricultural lands in the United States; and blocking the pathway of civilization—with all these blessings the Indians ought to be able to pick their teeth in contentment.

"But like the dog in the manger they are unwilling that others should share what they cannot use. Sole lords over a dominion broad enough to support 2,000,000 people, they are alarmed and pained that the civilization which has magnanimously refrained from disputing their greedy position is disposed to go around them and plant itself to the west of them. So they hie themselves to their faithful friends, the cattle barons, for comfort and advice. Between them they trump up an argument whereby they fondly hope to convince the people of this country that 23,000,000 acres of land virtually unoccupied and lying wholly beyond the five civilized tribes should be still longer reserved from public settlement for the financial benefit of the cattle kings and the parasites which always infest a great political monopoly like our Indian system."—Hon. Isaac S. Struble, of Iowa, in House of Representatives, June 3, 1886.

†"The imperative necessity of preserving the cattle-man in his unlawful possessions, the outlaw in his immunity from justice, the Indian agent in his field for speculation, and the Indian in his mental and moral degradation, by a further continuance of the present anomalous and outrageous condition of affairs in the Indian Territory has been portrayed in vivid colors until we are almost led to believe that Anglo-Saxon progress has reached an obstacle which it cannot surmount, and that the civilization of the revolver and bowie-knife is the only civilization possible in that benighted region."—Hon. Isaac S. Struble, in House of Representatives, June 3, 1886.

to be utilized by them,* and from which they can derive no benefit, except by unlawful leases to the cattle bosses, and that not for the benefit of the great mass of the Indian population, but practically for the emolument of the usurping Indian autocrats. Why, then, should not these wealthy Indian barons be required to "assent" to the opening to white settlement of the unappropriated lands of the tribes? Why, then, should they not be compelled to abandon their usurpations—be coerced to recognize the rights of the Indian people, to disgorge their ill-gotten estates, and submit to a distribution in severalty of the land among the tribal masses? Is not the United States bound by its treaty obligations to destroy, uproot, this autocratic servile system, to protect the Indian people in an equal participation in the profits of the soil, and advance the cause of civilization and freedom by maintaining the rights of the white man to a settlement and cultivation of all unoccupied lands of our domain? Neither under their treaties nor our laws have these Indians a right to monopolize these lands—to interdict their settlement by white and civilized races, especially as their settlement, for which the Indians will be amply paid under the Springer bill, will greatly enhance the value of their occupied lands, and surround them with all the grand benefits of an advancing civilization.

Hence the Government, in the proposed establishment of the Territory of Oklahoma, simply yields to the demands of civilization and justice. Let it therefore be done, and done quickly.

*"The vast surplusage of land in the Indian Territory, much of it, too, not surpassed anywhere for versatility and fertility of production, which can never be utilized by the Indians now within its border, nor by their descendants (for it is not probable that there will be any material increase in numbers of Indian population), must sooner or later be disposed of by Congress some way or other,"—Commissioner Indian Affairs Annual Report for 1886.

PUBLIC LANDS IN OKLAHOMA—DISPOSAL THEREOF.

The 12th, 13th, 14th, and 15th sections of the act of Congress entitled, "An act making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian Department, and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with various Indian tribes, for the year ending June 30th, 1890, and for other purposes," approved March 2, 1889, provides for throwing open to settlement by proclamation of the President a portion of the lands in the Indian Territory indicated therein as lands ceded to the United States or to be ceded to them by the Indian tribes having claims thereto. In pursuance thereof, the President issued his proclamation under date of the 23d, March, 1889, opening a portion of the lands referred to lying within certain boundaries therein specified to settlement at and after twelve o'clock, noon, of the 22d of April next. To give effect to these provisions, two land districts, the western and eastern, have been established by the President, with the Land Office for the former at Kingfisher Stage Station, and for the latter at Guthrie, and public notice thereof given by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, March 27, 1889, in which the boundaries of the districts are respectively set forth.

Parties having the prescribed legal qualifications may go upon the lands, except sections 16 and section 36, which are reserved for schools, at and after the day and hour named, and acquire incipient homestead rights thereto by bona fide acts of settlement, which may be perfected into complete title by subsequent compliance with legal requirements, or a party may, should he prefer, apply at the proper district land office and make entry prior to settlement, after which he will be allowed the period of six months within which to establish his residence on the land entered. If settlement precedes entry at the local office, the latter must be made within three months from date of settlement.

The following is a statement of the provisions of the general homestead laws applicable to these lands, under existing conditions, viz :

The homestead laws secure to qualified persons the right to settle upon, enter, and acquire title to not exceeding one quarter section or 160 acres of public land, by establishing and maintaining residence thereon, and improving and cultivating the land for the continuous period of five years.

A homestead entryman must be the head of a family, or a person who has arrived at the age of twenty-one years, and a citizen of the United States, or one who has filed his declaration of intention to become such, as required by the naturalization laws.

Lands subject to homestead entry are such as, under existing laws, are subject to pre-emption, under the general pre-emption laws.

When a person desires to enter a tract of land he must appear personally at the district land office and present his application (Form No. 4—007), and must make the required affidavits before the register or receiver, there being no county courts yet organized.

A person in active service in the Army or Navy of the United States, whose family or some member thereof is residing on the land which he wishes to enter, and upon which a bona fide settlement and improvement has been made by them, may make the affidavit required by law before the officer commanding in the branch of service in which the applicant is engaged. (Rev Stat., 2293.)

A false oath taken before the proper officer, under section 2293, is perjury, the same as if taken before the register or receiver.

The period of actual inhabitancy, improvement, and cultivation required under the homestead law is five years.

Where a wife has been divorced from her husband or deserted, so that she is dependent upon her own resources for support, she can make homestead entry as the head of a family or as a femme sole.

A single woman who makes a homestead entry and marries before making proof does not by her marriage forfeit her right to make proof and receive patent for the land, provided she does not abandon her residence on the land to reside elsewhere. A residence elsewhere than on the land entered for more than six months at any one time is to be treated as an abandonment of the homestead entry, under section 2297, Revised Statutes.

APPLICATION FOR A HOMESTEAD.

To obtain a homestead the party should select and personally examine the land and be satisfied of its character and true description.

He must file an application stating his name, residence, and post-office address, and describing the land he desires to enter (Form 4—007), and make affidavit (Form 4—c63); that he is over the age of twenty-one years or the head of a family; that he is a native-born (or naturalized) citizen of the United States, or has declared his intention to become a citizen, as required by the naturalization laws (or has performed service in the Army or Navy of the United States); and that the entry is made for his exclusive use and benefit, and for actual settlement and cultivation, and not either directly or indirectly for the use or benefit of any other person, and that he has not theretofore made an entry under the homestead laws, and must pay the legal fee and that part of the commissions which is payable when entry is made.

But a party who, prior to said act of March 2, 1889, made a homestead entry and for any cause failed to secure a title in fee, or who commuted his entry, will not be required to make oath that he had not made an entry, but may make affidavit to the facts of such entry, and failure to acquire a title in fee or to the commutation of his former entry, describing the land by legal subdivisions, or giving the number and date of entry with the land office where made, and may, thereupon, be permitted to make entry again. In the case of parties who make entries subsequent to the date of said act, the following general rule will apply, viz:

ONLY ONE HOMESTEAD PRIVILEGE TO THE SAME PERSON PERMITTED.

As the law allows but one homestead privilege, a settler relinquishing or abandoning his claim cannot thereafter make a second entry, although where the entry is canceled as invalid for some reason other than abandonment, and not the wilful act of the party, he is not thereby debarred from entering again, if in other respects entitled, and may have the fee and commissions paid on the canceled entry refunded on proper application under the act of June 16, 1880. (Hannah M. Brown, 4 L. D., 9; Goist vs. Bottum, 5, L. D., 643; Jasper N. Shepherd, 6 L. D., 362.)

Where a party makes a selection of land for a homestead he must abide by his choice. If he has neglected to examine the character of the land prior to entry and it proves to be inferior or otherwise unsatisfactory he must suffer the consequences of his own neglect.

In some cases, however, where obstacles which could not have been foreseen, and which render it impracticable to cultivate the land, are discovered subsequently to entry (such as the impossibility of obtaining water by digging wells or otherwise), or where, subsequently to entry, and through no fault of the homesteader, the land becomes useless for agricultural purposes (as where by the deposit of "tailings", in the channel of a stream a dam is formed, causing the waters to overflow,) the entry may, in the discretion of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, be canceled and a second entry allowed; but, in the event of a new entry, the party will be required to show the same compliance with law in connection therewith as though he had not made a previous entry, and must pay the proper fees and commissions upon the same.

On compliance by the party with the foregoing requirements for making entry, the receiver will issue his receipt for the fee and that part of the commissions paid (Form 4—137), a duplicate of which he will deliver to the party. The matter will then be entered on the records of the district office and reported to the General Land Office.

SIMULTANEOUS APPLICATIONS.

In cases of simultaneous applications to enter the same tract of land under the homestead laws, the rule is as follows:

First. Where neither party has improvements on the land the right of entry should be awarded to the highest bidder.

Second. Where one has actual settlement and improvement and the other has not, it should be awarded to the actual settler.

Third. Where both allege settlement and improvements, an investigation must be had and the right of entry awarded to the one who shows prior actual settlement and substantial improvements so as to be notice on the ground to any competitor. (Report of General Land Office for 1866, p. 19; also case of Helfrich vs. King, 3 Copp, L. O., p. 164.)

RESIDENCE OF APPLICANT MUST BE STATED.

The applicant must in every case state in his application his place of actual residence and his post-office address, in order that notices of proceedings relative to his entry may be sent him.

INCEPTIVE RIGHTS OF HOMESTEAD SETTLERS.

An inceptive right is vested in the settler by the proceedings hereinbefore described. He must, within six months after making his entry, establish his actual residence, in a house upon the land, and must reside upon and cultivate the land continuously, in accordance with law, for the term of five years.

Occasional visits to the land once in six months or oftener is not residence. The homestead party must actually inhabit the land and make it the home of himself and family, as well as improve and cultivate it.

At the expiration of five years, or within two years thereafter, he may make proof of his compliance with law by residence, improvement, and cultivation for the full period required, and must show that the land has not been alienated except as provided in section 2288, Revised Statutes. (Sec. 2291, Rev. Stat.)

The period of continuous residence and cultivation begins to run at the date of actual settlement, in case the entry at the district land office is made within the prescribed period (three months) thereafter or before the intervention of a valid adverse claim. (Act May 14, 1880; 21 Stat., 140.)

CULTIVATION IN GRAZING DISTRICTS.

In grazing districts, stock-raising and dairy production are so nearly akin to agricultural pursuits as to justify the issue of patent upon proof of permanent settlement and the use of the land for such purposes.

FINAL PROOF.

A settler desiring to make final proof must file with the register of the proper land office a written notice, in the prescribed form, of his intention to do so, which notice will be published by the register in a newspaper to be by him designated as nearest the land, once a week for six weeks, at the applicant's expense.

Applicants should commence to make their proofs in sufficient time, so that the same may be completed and filed in the local office within the statutory period of seven years from date of entry.

Proofs can only be made by the homestead claimant in person, and can not be made by an agent, attorney, assignee, or other person, except that in case of the death of the entryman, proof can be made by the statutory successor to the homestead right, in the manner provided by law.

HEIRS OF A HOMESTEAD SETTLER.

Where a homestead settler dies before the consummation of his claim, the widow, or in case of her death, the heirs, may continue settlement or cultivation and obtain title upon requisite proof at the proper time. If the widow proves up, title passes to her; if she dies before proving up and the heirs make the proof, the title will vest in them. (Sec. 2291, Rev. Stat.)

Where both parents die, leaving infant children, the homestead may be sold for cash for the benefit of such children, and the purchaser will receive title from the United States, or residence and cultivation may con-time for the prescribed period, when the patent will issue to the children. (Sec. 2292, Rev. Stat.)

A homestead right cannot be devised away from a widow or minor children.

In case of the death of a person after having entered a homestead, the failure of the widow, children, or devisee of the deceased to take up residence on the land within six months after the entry, or otherwise to fulfill the demands of the letter of the law as to residence, will not necessarily subject the entry to forfeiture on the ground of abandonment. If the land is cultivated in good faith the law will be considered as having been substantially complied with. (Tauer vs. The Heirs of Walter A. Mann, 4 L. D., 433.)

HOMESTEAD CLAIMANTS WHO BECOME INSANE.

The rights of a homestead claimant who has become insane may, under act of June 8, 1880, be proved up and his claim perfected by any person duly authorized to act for him during his disability. (21 Statute, 166.)

Such claim must have been initiated in full compliance with law, by a person who was a citizen or had declared his intention of becoming a citizen, and was in other respects duly qualified.

The party for whose benefit the act shall be invoked must have become insane subsequently to the initiation of his claim.

Claimant must have complied with the law up to the time of becoming insane, and proof of compliance will be required to cover only the period prior to such insanity, but the act will not be construed to cure a failure to comply with the law when the failure occurred prior to such insanity.

The final proof must be made by a party whose authority to act for the insane person during his disability shall be duly certified under seal of the proper probate court.

CLIMATIC HINDRANCES.

The proviso annexed to section 2297, Revised Statutes, by amendatory act of March 3, 1881, (21 Stat., 511), provides that in case such settler has been prevented by climatic reasons from establishing actual residence upon his homestead within six months from date of entry, the Commissioner of the General Land Office may, in his discretion, allow him twelve months from that date in which to commence his residence.

In such case the settler must, on final proof, file with the register and receiver his affidavit, duly corroborated by two credible witnesses, setting forth in detail the storms, floods, blockades by snow or ice, or other hindrances dependent upon climatic causes which rendered it impossible for him to commence residence within six months. A claimant can not be allowed twelve months from entry when it can be shown that he might have established his residence on the land at an earlier day; and a failure to exercise proper diligence in so doing as soon as possible after the climatic hindrances disappear, will imperil his entry in case of a contest.

HOMESTEAD CLAIMS NOT LIABLE FOR DEBT AND NOT SALABLE.

No lands acquired under the provisions of the homestead laws are liable for the satisfaction of any debt contracted prior to the issue of patent. (Sec. 2296, Rev. Stat.)

The sale of a homestead claim by the settler to another party before completion of title vests no title or equities in the purchaser as against the United States. In making final proof, the settler is by law required to swear that no part of the land has been alienated except for church, cemetery, or school purposes, or the right of way of railroad. (Sec. 2288, Rev. Stat.)

HOMESTEAD FEES AND COMMISSIONS.

The land office fees and commissions, payable when application is made, are as follows :

	Land at $2.50 per acre.	Land at $1.25 per acre.
For 160 acres	$18 00	$14 00
For 80 acres	9 00	7 00
For 40 acres	7 00	6 00

The land office commissions, payable at the time of making final proof, are as follows :

	Land at $2.50 per acre.	Land at $1.25 per acre.
For 160 acres	$8 00	$4 00
For 80 acres	4 00	2 00
For 40 acres	2 00	1 00

It is understood that all the Oklahoma lands are held at $1.25 per acre, and none at $2.50 per acre.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' HOMESTEAD RIGHTS.

Any officer, soldier, seaman, or marine who served for not less than ninety days in the Army or Navy of the United States during the rebellion, and who was honorably discharged and has remained loyal to the Government and who makes a homestead entry of 160 acres or less on any land subject to such entry, is entitled under section 2305 of the Revised Statutes to have the term of his service in the Army or Navy, not exceeding four years, deducted from the period of five years' residence required under the homestead laws.

If the party was discharged from service on account of wounds or disabilities incurred in the line of duty the whole term of enlistment, not exceeding four years, is to be deducted from the homestead period of five years; but no patent can issue to any homestead settler who has not resided upon, improved, and cultivated his homestead for a period of at least one year after he commenced his improvements. (Sec. 2305, Revised Statutes.)

A party applying to make entry under the provisions of section 2304 must file with the register and receiver a certified copy of his certificate of discharge, showing when he enlisted and when he was discharged; or the affidavit of two respectable, disinterested witnesses corroborative of the allegations contained in the prescribed affidavit (Form 4—065) on these points, or, if neither can be procured, his own affidavit to that effect.

A SOLDIER MAY FILE A DECLARATORY STATEMENT IN PERSON.

The filing must be accompanied by the oath of the soldier, stating his residence and post-office address, and setting forth that the claim is made for his exclusive use and benefit, for the purpose of actual settlement and cultivation, and not either directly or indirectly for the use or benefit of any other person; and that he has not theretofore either made a homestead entry or filed a declaratory statement under the homestead law (Form 4—546). The fee is $2.

A SOLDIER'S CLAIM MAY BE FILED BY AN AGENT.

Any such officer, soldier, sailor or marine may file his claim for a tract of land through an agent, and may have six months thereafter within which to make his actual entry and commence his settlement and improvements upon the land. (Revised Statutes, 2309.)

In addition to the oath heretofore prescribed, the oath, in case of filing by an agent, must further declare the name and authority of the agent and the date of the power of attorney or other instrument creating the agency, adding that the name of the agent was inserted therein before its execution. It should also state in terms that the agent has no right or interest, direct or indirect, in the filing of such declaratory statement (Form 4—545).

The agent must file (in addition to his power of attorney) his own oath to the effect that he has no interest, either present or prospective, direct or indirect, in the claim; that the same is filed for the sole benefit of the soldier, and that no arrangement has been made whereby said agent has been empowered at any future time to sell or relinquish such claim, either as agent or by filing an original relinquishment of the claimant (Form 4—545).

As implied by the requirement of the oath, a soldier will be held to have exhausted his homestead right by the filing of his declaratory statement; it being manifest that the right to file is a privilege granted to soldiers in addition to the ordinary privilege only in the matter of giving them power to hold their claims for six months after selection, before entry; but is not a license to abandon such selection with the right thereafter to make a regular homestead entry independently of such filing. This is clear from the statutory language. Section 2304 provides that "the settler shall be allowed six months, after locating his homestead and filing his declaratory statement, within which to make his entry and commence his settlement and improvement;" and section 2309 requires him "in person" to "make his actual entry, commence settlement and improvement on the same, and thereafter fulfill all the requirements of law." These must be done on "the same" land selected and located by the filing.

The foregoing rule, however, will not be construed to require the rejection of an application to enter the tract filed upon after the lapse of six months, when climatic reasons are shown, which in case of an actual entry would, under the act of March 3, 1881, (21 Stat., 511), justify an allowance of one year for establishing residence; nor in cases where the failure results from sickness, misfortune, or any insurmountable cause, which shall be properly alleged and satisfactorily shown, and where no adverse right has intervened.

Where such cause has prevented entry and an adverse right has been admitted, it will be held proper within the discretion of the General Land Office to allow an entry upon another tract: Provided, That it shall be shown to the full satisfaction of the Commissioner that the default was practically beyond the power of the claimant to avoid.

Following the accepted practice in pre-emption cases, the filing of a declaratory statement will not be held to bar the admission of filings and entries by others; but any person making entry or claim during the period allowed by law for entry of the soldier will do so subject to his right; and the soldier's application when offered within such time will be allowed as a matter of right and operate to exclude the intervening claim.

In case any register and receiver have cause to believe that any filing offered for record is not presented in good faith they will reject the same, allowing an appeal from their action according to the regular practice.

Entries cannot be made for a soldier or sailor by an agent or attorney.

The entry can be made only by the soldier or sailor, and he must commence his settlement on the land within six months after his filing, and must continue to reside on the land and cultivate it for such period as, added to his military or naval service, will make five years. But he must actually reside upon the land at least one year whatever may have been the period of his military or naval service.

The widow, or, in case of her death or remarriage, the guardian of minor children, may complete an entry made by the soldier or sailor by filing in this manner, but not completed before his death by formal entry, and patent will issue accordingly.

In case of the death of any person who would be entitled to a homestead under the provisions of section 2304 his widow, or, in case of her death or remarriage, his minor orphan children, by a guardian duly appointed and officially accredited at the Department of the Interior, may initiate the filing and entry in the same manner that the soldier or sailor might have done, subject to all the provisions of the homestead laws in respect to settlement and improvement; and the whole term of enlistment in the military or naval service shall be deducted from the time otherwise required to perfect the title. (Sec. 2307, Rev. Stat.)

The ruling heretofore stated relative to the widow or minor children of another deceased homestead party as to actual residence is equally applicable to the widow or minor children of a deceased sailor or soldier; if the land is cultivated in good faith the law will be regarded as substantially complied with, although the widow or children may not actually reside upon the land.

In case of widows, the prescribed evidence of military service of the husband must be furnished, with affidavit of widowhood, giving date of the husband's death.

In case of minor orphan children, in addition to the prescribed evidence of military service of the father, proof of death or remarriage of the mother must be furnished. Evidence of death may be the testimony of two witnesses, or a physician's certificate duly attested. Evidence of marriage may be certified copy of marriage certificate, or of the record of same, or testimony of two witnesses to the marriage ceremony.

Minor orphan children can act only by their duly appointed guardians, who must file certified copies of the powers of guardianship which must be transmitted to the General Land Office by the registers and receivers with their abstracts of soldiers' declaratory statements.

SOLDIER'S ADDITIONAL HOMESTEAD ENTRY.

An officer, soldier, seaman, or marine who served for not less than ninety days in the Army or Navy of the United States during the rebellion, who had, prior to June 22, 1874, the date of approval of the Revised Statutes, made a homestead entry of less than 160 acres, may enter an additional quantity of land, adjacent to his former entry or elsewhere, sufficient to make, with the previous entry, 160 acres. (Rev. Stat., 2306.)

This right (extended by sec. 2307, Rev. Stat., to the widow, if unmarried, otherwise to the minor orphan children by proper guardian) is a personal one, and is not transferable; it is not subject to assignment or lien, nor can it be exercised by another.

The party desiring to make an additional entry and being entitled thereto must present himself at the land office of the district in which the land he wishes to enter is situated and make his application in the same manner as in case of an original entry (Form No. 4—008).

In addition to the usual homestead affidavit setting forth that the entry is made for his own exclusive use and benefit and for actual settlement and cultivation, the claimant must make a special affidavit showing—

First. His identity as the soldier he represents himself to be reciting his military service and stating his present residence and post-office address.

Second. The facts in detail, setting forth his right to make the additional entry and that he has fully complied with the provisions of the homestead laws in the residence upon and cultivation and improvement of his original entry and stating whether or not he has proved up his claim and received a patent for the land. Proper reference must be made to the original homestead entry, giving the name of the district office wherein it was made, the date and number of the entry, and the description of the land.

Third. That he has not in any manner previously exercised his additional right either by entry or application, or by sale, transfer, or power of attorney, but that the same remains in him unimpaired.

The foregoing affidavits must be sworn to and subscribed in the presence of the register or receiver. This rule must be strictly adhered to in order to avoid false personation; and applications and affidavits presented to the register and receiver with signature attached will not be received.

The prescribed proof of compliance with the legal requirements of residence and cultivation for the statutory period under sections 2291 and 2305, U. S. R. S., will be required before final certificate shall issue.

ADDITIONAL ENTRY UNDER SIXTH SECTION, ACT OF MARCH 2, 1889,
PUBLIC NO. 124.

The sixth section of that act admits of an additional entry of land, which need not be contiguous to the land embraced in the original, by parties who have complied with the conditions of the law with regard to the original entry, and have had the final papers issued therefor, and with the condition of residence and cultivation of the land embraced in the additional entry, to be made and proved as in ordinary homestead entries.

Application and affidavit will be required in entries under this section, and the forms 4-018 and 4-086 may be used.

In additional entries under this section the usual homestead fees and commissions will be required to be paid, and receipts will be issued therefor. Notes will be made on the entry papers and opposite the entries on the monthly abstracts referring to the section and the act under which allowed.

PARTIAL WAIVER OF HOMESTEAD RIGHTS.

The election of a qualified party, when filing for a homestead, to take less than the law allows him, is construed as a waiver of his claim for a larger quantity; and the same in case of an adjoining farm entry or soldier's additional entry.

(But when an additional homestead claim was filed for 40 acres by a homesteader whose original entry was 120 acres, and 40 acres of this original entry had been canceled, but notice of the cancellation had not reached him when he filed for the additional 40 acres, this was not considered a waiver of the full amount, since he filed for all that he supposed was due him.)

INDIAN HOMESTEADS.

By the provisions of the Indian appropriation act of July 4, 1884, (23 Stats., 96), any Indians who might then be located on public lands or should thereafter so locate may avail themselves of the privileges of the homestead laws as fully and to the same extent as citizens of the United States, but without payment of fees or commissions on account of such entries or proofs.

Indian homesteads can not be commuted and are not subject to sale, assignment, lease, or incumbrance. All patents issued for Indian homesteads must be of the legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land thus entered for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the Indian by whom such entry shall have been made, or, in case of his decease, of his widow and heirs according to the laws of the State or Territory where such land is located, and that at the expiration of said period the United States will convey the same by patent to said Indian or his widow and heirs as aforesaid, in fee, discharged of said trust and free of all charge or incumbrance whatsoever.

Upon any Indian applying to enter land under said act he will be allowed to do so without payment of fee or commissions, but will be required to furnish a certificate from the agent of the tribe to which he belongs that he is an Indian of the age of twenty-one years or the head of a family and not the subject of any foreign country. The entries will be numbered in the same series as other homesteads, but the papers, abstracts, and tract-books should be annotated "Indian homestead, act July 4, 1884."

FIVE-YEAR NOTICE AND SEVEN-YEAR NOTICE.

Registers and receivers will notify homestead claimants, on the expiration of the five-year period and of the seven-year period, according to Forms 4—343 and 4—344, respectively.

SUFFERERS FROM GRASSHOPPERS.

The first section of the act of July 1, 1879, "for the relief of settlers on the public lands in districts subject to grasshopper incursions," provides that homestead settlers on public lands where crops have been destroyed or seriously injured by grasshoppers may leave and be absent from said lands for a period not to exceed one year continuously, under such rules and regulations as the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall prescribe, being allowed afterward to resume and perfect their settlement as though no such absence had occurred.

A settler desiring to take advantage of the provisions of this act should file with the register and receiver a written notice of intended absence, bearing his own signature, and embracing a statement that he had sustained loss or failure of his crops. This should be noted on the tract-books for the protection of the claimant and the information of parties who might otherwise make settlement and attempt to obtain title.

Upon making final proof the settler having been absent under the first section should file his affidavit, with the affidavits of two or more witnesses, corroborative thereof, stating the particulars of the alleged destruction or serious injury of crops by grasshoppers.

The particulars given should be such as to admit of a decision whether the absence was justified by law or not, and should specifically show at what time the party left the land and when he resumed his settlement.

The affidavits required in cases arising under this section of the act must be made at the same time and place and before the same officer taking the other proofs.

SUFFERERS FROM OTHER CAUSES.

The third section of the act of March 2, 1889, entitled "An act to withdraw certain lands from private entry and for other purposes," provides for permission to be granted in certain cases by the register and receiver of the proper district land office for parties claiming public land as settlers under existing laws to leave and be absent from the land settled upon for a specified period, not to exceed one year at any one time. The applicant for such permission will be required to submit testimony to consist of his own affidavit, corroborated by the affidavits of disinterested witnesses, executed before the register or receiver or some officer in the land district using a seal and authorized to administer oaths setting forth in detail the facts on which he relies to support his application, and which must be sufficient to satisfy the register and receiver, who are enjoined to exercise their best and most careful judgment in the matter, that he is unable by reason of a total or partial destruction or failure of crops, sickness or other unavoidable casualty to secure a support for himself or those dependent upon him upon the land settled upon. In case a leave of absence is granted the register and receiver will enter such action on their records, indicating the period for which granted, and promptly report the fact to this office, transmitting the testimony on which their action is based. In case of refusal the applicant will be allowed the right of appeal on the usual conditions.

TOWN SITES.

The legislation first above mentioned with reference to these lands admits of the entry of town sites under sections 2387 and 2388, U. S. R. S., but limits the quantity of land that may be embraced in any one entry to 320 acres, whatever may be the number of inhabitants.

The following are the principles governing entries under the sections mentioned, viz :

Lands actually settled upon and occupied as a townsite, and therefore not subject to entry under the agricultural pre-emption laws, may be entered as a townsite in accordance with the provisions of sections 2387 and 2388, United States Revised Statutes.

1. If the town is incorporated, the entry may be made by the corporate authorities thereof through the mayor or other principal officer duly authorized so to do.

2. If the town is not incorporated, the entry may be made by the judge of the county court for the county in which said town is situated.

3. In either case the entry must be made in trust for the use and benefit of the occupants thereof, according to their respective interests.

4. The execution of such trust as to the disposal of lots and the proceeds of sales is to be conducted under regulations prescribed by State or Territorial laws. Acts of trustees not in accordance with such regulations are void.

5. Private individuals or organizations are not authorized to enter townsites under this act, nor can entries under this act be made of prospective townsites. The town must be actually established, and the entry must be for the benefit of the actual inhabitants and occupants thereof.

6. The officer authorized to enter a townsite may make entry at once, or he may initiate an entry by filing a declaratory statement of the purpose of the inhabitants to make a town-site entry of the land described.

7. The entry or declaratory statement shall include only such land as is actually occupied by the town, and the title to which is in the United States, and, if upon surveyed lands, its exterior limits must conform to the legal subdivisions of the public lands.

Should there be no duly constituted officers in Oklahoma authorized to make entry in trust for the inhabitants, as contemplated in section 2387, any party interested may apply with proper proofs and thus bring the matter before the General Land Office for consideration, and for such action as may be deemed proper for the protection of the rights involved.

ENTERING UPON THE LANDS DURING THE RESERVATION.

Any person applying to make entry of these lands will be required to make affidavit that he did not violate the law by entering upon and occupying any part of the reservation before the time fixed in the President's proclamation for it to be open to settlement.

Copies of the statutes, proclamation, notice, and forms referred to in the foregoing will be found appended, also the departmental circular on the subject of April 1, 1889.

APPENDIX.

[PUBLIC No. 155.]

An act making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian Department, and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with various Indian tribes, for the year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ninety, and for other purposes.

SEC. 12. That the sum of one million nine hundred and twelve thousand nine hundred and forty-two dollars and two cents be, and the same hereby is, appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to pay in full the Seminole nation of Indians for all the right, title, interest, and claim which said nation of Indians may have in and to certain lands ceded by article three of the treaty between the United States and said nation of Indians, which was concluded June fourteenth, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and proclaimed August sixteenth, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and which land was then estimated to contain two million one hundred and sixty-nine thousand and eighty acres, but which is now, after survey, ascertained to contain two million thirty-seven thousand four hundred and fourteen and sixty-two hundredths acres, said sum of money to be paid as follows: One million five hundred thousand dollars to remain in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of said nation of Indians and to bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum from July first, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, said interest to be paid semi-annually to the treasurer of said nation, and the sum of four hundred and twelve thousand nine hundred and forty-two dollars and twenty cents, to be paid to such person or persons as shall be duly authorized by the laws of said nation to receive the same, at such times and in such sums as shall be directed and required by the legislative authority of said nation, to be immediately available; this appropriation to become operative upon the execution by the duly appointed delegates of said nation, specially empowered so to do, of a release and conveyance to the United States of all the right, title, interest, and claim of said nation of Indians in and to said lands, in manner and form satisfactory to the President of the United States, and said release and conveyance, when fully executed and delivered, shall operate to extinguish all claims of every kind and character of said Seminole nation of Indians in and to the tract of country to which said release and conveyance shall apply, but such release, conveyance, and extinguishment shall not inure to the benefit of or cause to vest in any railroad company any right, title, or interest whatever in or to any of said lands, and all laws and parts of laws so far as they conflict with the foregoing, are hereby repealed, and all grants or pretended grants of said lands or any interest or right therein now existing in or on behalf of any railroad company, except rights of way and depot grounds, are hereby declared to be forever forfeited for breach of condition.

SEC. 13. That the lands acquired by the United States under said agreement shall be a part of the public domain, to be disposed of only as herein provided, and sections sixteen and thirty-six of each township, whether surveyed or unsurveyed, are hereby reserved for the use and benefit of the public schools, to be established within the limits of said lands under such conditions and regulations as may be hereafter enacted by Congress.

CIRCULAR INSTRUCTIONS.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, April 1, 1889.

Registers and Receivers of the United States Land Offices, Indian Ty.

GENTLEMEN: The 12th, 13th, 14th, and 15th sections of an act of Congress, approved March 2, 1889, entitled "An act making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian Department and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with various Indian tribes for the year ending June 30, 1890, and for other purposes," a copy of which section is hereto attached, embrace provisions for the disposal of certain lands therein designated. Pursuant to these provisions the President has issued his proclamation of the 23d instant, copy also attached, opening a described portion of the lands so designated for settlement and entry from and after a date therein given, and your offices have been established for the disposal thereof accordingly.

These lands have been surveyed, and you will be supplied with the township plats, tract books, blank forms, official circulars, and other requisites for the proper transaction of your business in connection therewith.

You will observe that the statute reserves sections 16 and 36 in every township for school purposes, and the proclamation reserves for Government use and control the following, viz.: One acre of land, in square form, in the northwest corner of section nine, in township sixteen north, range two west of the Indian meridian in Indian Territory, and also one acre of land in the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section fifteen, township sixteen north, range seven west of the Indian meridian in the Indian Territory. The remainder of the lands are made subject to entry by actual settlers under the general homestead laws, with certain modifications.

Your attention is directed to the general circular issued by this office January 1, 1889, pages 13 to 30 inclusive, 42 to 57 inclusive, and 86 to 90 inclusive, as containing the homestead laws and official regulations thereunder. These laws and regulations will control your action, but modified by the special provisions of the said act of March 2, 1889, in the following particulars, viz.:

1. The rule stated on seventeenth page of said circular under the title, "Only one homestead privilege to the same person permitted," is so modified as to admit of a homestead entry being made by any one, who prior to the passage of said act, had made a homestead entry, but failed, from any cause, to secure a title in fee to the land embraced therein, or who, having secured such title, did so by what is known as the commutation of his homestead entry. See section 2301, U. S. R. S., page 88, and statement on page 19 of said circular under the title "Commutation of Homestead Entries." A person desiring to make another entry under this provision will be required to make affidavit to the facts necessary to entitle him to do so under the laws and rules, designating in the affidavit his former entry by description of the land, number and date of entry, with the name of the land office where made, or other sufficient data to admit of readily identifying it on the official records, which affidavit you will transmit with the other entry papers to this office.

With regard to persons making homestead entries and failing to acquire title thereunder, or commuting them, after the passage of said act of March 2, 1889, the rule stated on page 17 of said circular, as to second homesteads, is operative, and will be enforced, in relation to these lands as well as others.

2. The statute provides for the disposal of these lands "to actual settlers under the homestead laws only" and while providing that "the rights of honorably discharged Union soldiers and sailors in the late civil war as defined and described in sections 2304 and 2305 of the Revised Statutes, (See pages 24, 25 and 26 of said circular) shall not be abridged," makes no mention of sections 2306 and 2307 thereof, under which such soldiers and sailors, their widows and orphan children are permitted, with regard to the public lands generally, to make additional entries, in certain cases, free from the requirement of actual settlement on the entered tract, see pages 26 and 27 of said circular. It is therefore held that soldiers' or sailors' additional entries cannot be made on these lands under said sections 2306 and 2307, unless the party claiming will, in addition to the proof required on pages 26 and 27 of said circular, make affidavit that the entry is made for actual settlement and cultivation, according to section 2291, as modified by sections 2304 and 2305 of the Revised Statutes, and the prescribed proof of compliance therewith will be required to be produced before the issue of final certificate.

3. It is provided in the statute that section 2301 of the Revised Statutes shall not apply to these lands, see pages 19 and 88 of said circular. Therefore, entries made thereon will not be subject to commutation under that section.

Any person applying to enter or file for a homestead will be required, first, to make affidavit, in addition to other requirements, that he did not violate the law by entering upon and occupying any portion of the lands described in the President's proclamation, dated March 23, 1889, prior to 12 o'clock noon, April 22, 1889, the affidavit to accompany your returns for the entry allowed.

The statute provides that townsite entries may be allowed under sections 2387 and 2388, U. S. R. S., but limits the area in any such entry to one-half section, or 320 acres, as the maximum, whatever the number of inhabitants. For instructions as to entries under said sections of the Revised Statutes you are referred to the circular issued by this office July 9, 1886, subdivision III., pages 4 and 5. Should applications for townsite entries or filings be presented by parties in interest, in the absence of officers properly qualified to make entry in trust for the inhabitants, under the provisions of said section 2387, you will note the applications on your records, forward a report thereof to this office with any papers presented, and await instructions before allowing any entry of the land.

No rights under the townsite laws can be acquired to any of the lands described in the said proclamation prior to the time therein prescribed for the same to become open to entry and occupancy as aforesaid, viz., 12 o'clock noon of the 22d of April, 1889.

It appears that by the President's order of the 26th December, 1885, a reservation was established for military purposes of the following sub-divisions of land within the boundaries described in said proclamation of the 23d March, 1889, and which reservation still continues, viz.: southwest quarter of section fifteen, south half of section sixteen, south half of section seventeen, southeast quarter of section eighteen, east half of section nineteen, all of section twenty, all of section twenty-one, west half of section twenty-two, west half of section twenty-seven, all of section twenty-eight, all of section twenty-nine, the east half of section thirty, northeast half of section thirty-one, north half of section thirty-two, north half of section thirty-three, and northwest quarter of section thirty-four, all in township twelve north, range 4, west of the Indian meridian.

These tracts, in view of their reservation under the President's order of December 26, 1885, are not subject to settlement or entry under the act of March 2, 1889, aforesaid, and the laws of the United States applicable thereto. See sections 2258 and 2289, U. S. R. S., and you will permit no entry or filing for any portion thereof.

It is thought that the foregoing will be found sufficient for your guidance in any cases that may arise, but should unforeseen difficulties present themselves you will submit the same for special instructions.

Respectfully.

S. M. STOCKSLAGER,
Commissioner.

Approved, John W. Noble, Secretary

SEC. 2293. In case of any person desirous of availing himself of the benefits of this chapter, but who, by reason of actual service in the military or naval service of the United States, is unable to do the personal preliminary acts at the district land office which the preceding sections require; and whose family, or some member thereof, is residing on the land which he desires to enter, and upon which a bona fide improvement and settlement have been made, such person may make the affidavit required by law before the officer commanding in the branch of the service in which the party is engaged, which affidavit shall be as binding in law, and with like penalties, as if taken before the register or receiver; and upon such affidavit being filed with the register by the wife or other representative of the party, the same shall become effective from the date of such filing, provided the application and affidavit are accompanied by the fee and commissions as required by law.

SEC. 2294. In any case in which the applicant for the benefit of the homestead, and whose family, or some member thereof, is residing on the land which he desires to enter, and upon which a bona fide improvement and settlement have been made, is prevented, by reason of distance, bodily infirmity, or other good cause, from personal attendance at the district land office, it may be lawful for him to make the affidavit required by law before the clerk of the court for the county in which the applicant is an actual resident, and to transmit the same, with the fee and commissions, to the register and receiver.

SEC. 2295. The register of the land office shall note all applications under the provisions of this chapter on the tract-books and plats of his office, and keep a register of all such entries, and make return thereof to the General Land Office, together with the proof upon which they have been founded.

SEC. 2296. No lands acquired under the provisions of this chapter shall in any event become liable to the satisfaction of any debt contracted prior to the issuing of the patent therefor.

the settler twelve months from the date of filing in which to commence his residence on said land under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe.]*

In case of the death of any person who would be entitled to a homestead under the provisions of section two thousand three hundred and four, his widow, if unmarried, or, in case of her death or marriage, then his minor orphan children, by a guardian duly appointed and officially accredited at the Department of the Interior, shall be entitled to all the benefits enumerated in this chapter, subject to all the provisions as to settlement and improvement therein contained; but if such person died during his term of enlistment, the whole term of his enlistment shall be deducted from the time heretofore required to perfect title.

SEC. 2308. Where a party at the date of his entry of a tract of land under the homestead laws, or subsequently thereto, was actually enlisted and employed in the Army or Navy of the United States, his services therein shall, in the administration of such homestead laws, be construed to be equivalent, to all intents and purposes, to a residence for the same length of time upon the tract so entered; and if his entry has been canceled by reason of his absence from such tract while in the military or naval service of the United States, and such tract has not been disposed of, his entry shall be restored; but if such tract has been disposed of, the party may enter another tract subject to entry under the homestead laws, and his right to a patent therefor may be determined by the proofs touching his residence and cultivation of the first tract and his absence therefrom in such service.

SEC. 2309. Every soldier, sailor, marine, officer, or other person coming within the provisions of section two thousand three hundred and four, may, as well by an agent as in person, enter upon such homestead by filing a declaratory statement, as in pre-emption cases; but such claimant in person shall within the time prescribed make his actual entry, commence settlements and improvements on the same, and thereafter fulfill all the requirements of law.

Timber land embraced in a homestead, or other entry not consummated, may be cleared in order to cultivate the land and improve the premises but for no other purpose.

If, after clearing the land for cultivation, there remains more timber than is required for improvement, there is no objection to the settler disposing of the same. But the question whether the land is being cleared of its timber for legitimate purposes is a question of fact, which is liable to be raised at any time. If the timber is cut and removed for any other purpose, it will subject the entry to cancellation, and the person who cut it will be liable to civil suit for recovery of the value of said timber and also to criminal prosecution under section 2461 of the Revised Statutes.

Further, within two years from the expiration of the said five years he must file proof of his actual settlement and cultivation, failing to do which his entry will be canceled. ACT OF ORGANIZATION.

AN ACT to provide a temporary government for the Territory of Oklahoma, to enlarge the jurisdiction of the United States courts in the Indian Territory, and for other purposes.

RELATING TO OKLAHOMA PROPER—BOUNDARIES DEFINED.

SECTION 1. That all that portion of the United States now known as the Indian Territory, except so much of the same as is actually occupied by the five civilized tribes, and the Indian tribes within the Quapaw Indian agency, and except the unoccupied part of the Cherokee Outlet, together with that portion of the United States known as the Public Land Strip, is hereby erected into a temporary government by the name of the Territory of Oklahoma. The portion of the Indian Territory included in said Territory of Oklahoma is bounded by a line drawn as follows: Commencing at a point where the ninety-eighth meridian crosses the Red River, thence by said meridian to the point where it crosses the Canadian River, thence along said river to the west line of the Seminole country, thence along said line to the north fork of the Canadian river, thence down said river to the west line of the Creek country, thence along said line to the northwest corner of the Creek country, thence along the north line of the Creek country to the ninety-sixth meridian, thence northward by said meridian to the southern boundary line of Kansas, thence west along said line to the Arkansas river, thence down said river to the north line of the land occupied by the Ponca tribe of Indians, from which point the line runs so as to include all the lands occupied by the Ponca, Tonkawa, Otoe, and Missouri, and the Pawnee tribes of Indians until it strikes the south line of the Cherokee Outlet, which it follows westward to the east line of the State of Texas, thence by the boundary line of the State of Texas to the point of beginning; the Public Land Strip, which is included in said Territory of Oklahoma, is bounded east by the one hundredth meridian, south by Texas, west by New Mexico, north by Colorado and Kansas. Whenever the interest of the Cherokee Indians in the land known as the Cherokee Outlet shall have been extinguished and the President shall make proclamation thereof, said Outlet shall thereupon, and without further legislation, become a part of the Territory of Oklahoma. Any other lands within the Indian Territory, not embraced within these boundaries, shall hereafter become a part of the Territory of Oklahoma, whenever the Indian nation or tribe owning such lands shall signify to the President of the United States in legal manner its assent that such lands shall so become a part of said Territory of Oklahoma, and the President shall thereupon make proclamation to that effect.

Congress may at any time hereafter change the boundaries of said Territory, or attach any portion of the same to any other State or Territory of the United States, without the consent of the inhabitants of the Territory hereby created: Provided, That nothing in this act shall be construed to impair any right now pertaining to any Indians or Indian tribe in said Territory under the laws, agreements, and treaties of the United States, or to impair the rights of person or property pertaining to said Indians, or to affect the authority of the Government of the United States to make any regulation or to make any law respecting said Indians, their lands, property, or other rights which it would have been competent to make or enact if this act had not been passed.

EXECUTIVE POWER—HOW VESTED.

SEC. 2. That the executive power of the Territory of Oklahoma shall be vested in a governor, who shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the President of the United States. The governor shall reside within said Territory; shall be commander-in-chief of the militia thereof; he may grant pardons for offenses against the laws of said Territory, and reprieves for offenses against the laws of the United States, until the decision of the President can be made known thereon; he shall commission all officers who shall be appointed to office under the laws of said territory, and shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

SEC. 3. That there shall be a secretary of said Territory, who shall reside therein and hold his office for four years unless sooner removed by the President of the United States; he shall record and preserve all the laws and the proceedings of the Legislative Assembly hereinafter constituted, and all acts and proceedings of the governor in his executive department; he shall transmit one copy of the laws and journals of the Legislative Assembly, within thirty days after the end of each session thereof, to the President of the United States and to the Secretary of the Interior and, at the same time, two copies of the laws and journals of the Legislative Assembly to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate for the use of Congress; and in case of the death, removal, resignation, or other necessary absence of the governor from the Territory, the secretary shall execute all the powers and perform all the duties of governor during such vacancy or absence, or until another governor is appointed and qualified.

LEGISLATIVE POWER—HOW VESTED.

SEC. 4. That the legislative power and authority of said Territory shall be vested in the governor and Legislative Assembly. The Legislative Assembly shall consist of a Council and a House of Representatives. The Council shall consist of thirteen members, having the qualifications of voters as hereinafter prescribed, whose term of service shall continue two years. The House of Representatives shall consist of twenty-six members, possessing the same qualifications as prescribed for members of the Council, and whose term of service shall continue two years, and the sessions of the Legislative Assembly shall be biennial and shall be limited to sixty days' duration: Provided, however, that the duration of the first session of said Legislative Assembly may continue one hundred and twenty days.

TEMPORARY GOVERNMENT.

That for the purpose of facilitating the organization of a temporary government in the Territory of Oklahoma, seven counties are hereby established therein, to be known, until after the first election in the Territory, as the First County, the Second County, the Third County, the Fourth County, the Fifth County, and the Sixth County, the boundaries of which shall be fixed by the governor of the Territory until otherwise provided by the Legislative Assembly thereof. The county seat of the First County shall be at Guthrie. The county seat of the Second County shall be at Oklahoma City. The county seat of the Third County shall be at Norman. The county seat of the Fourth County shall be at El Reno. The county seat of the Fifth County shall be at Kingfisher City. The county seat of the Sixth County shall be at Stillwater. The Seventh County shall embrace all that portion of the Territory lying West of the one hundredth meridian, known as the Public Land Strip, the county seat of which shall be at Beaver: Provided, That the county seats located by this act may be changed in such manner as the Territorial Legislature may provide.

At the first election for members of the Legislative Assembly the people of each county may vote for a name for such county, and the name which receives the greatest number of votes shall be the name of such county. If two or more counties should select the same name, the county which casts the greatest number of votes for such name shall be entitled to the same, and the names receiving the next highest number of votes in the other counties shall be the names of such counties. An apportionment shall be made by the Governor as nearly equal as practicable among the several counties or districts for the election of the Council and House of Representatives, giving to each section of the Territory representation in the ratio of its population (excepting Indians not taxed) as nearly as may be, and the members of the Council and House of Representatives shall reside in and be inhabitants of the district for which they may be elected, respectively. Previous to the first election the Governor shall cause a census or enumeration of the inhabitants of the several counties or districts of the Territory to be taken, unless the same shall have been taken and published by the United States, in which case such census and enumeration shall be adopted, and the first election shall be held at such times and places and be conducted in such manner, both as to the persons who superintend such election and the returns thereof, as the Governor shall appoint and direct, and he shall at the same time declare the number of the members of the Council and House of Representatives to which each of the counties or districts shall be entitled, as shown by the census herein provided for.

The number of persons authorized to be elected, having the highest number of legal votes in each of said Council districts for members of the Council, shall be declared by the Governor to be duly elected to the Council, and the person or persons authorized to be elected, having the greatest number of votes for the House of Representatives equal to the number to which each county or district shall be entitled, shall be declared by the Governor to be elected members of the House of Representatives: Provided, That in case two or more persons voted for have an equal number of votes, and in case a vacancy otherwise occurs in either branch of their Legislative Assembly, the Governor shall order a new election, and the persons thus elected to the Legislative Assembly shall meet at such place and on such days as the Governor shall appoint, but after such first election, however, the time, place, and manner of holding elections by the people, and the apportionment of representation, and the day of commencement of the regular sessions of the Legislative Assembly shall be prescribed by law: Provided, however, That the Governor shall have power to call the Legislative Assembly together by proclamation, on an extraordinary occasion at any time.

SEC. 5. That all male citizens of the United States above the age of twenty-one years, and all male persons of foreign birth over said age, who shall have twelve months prior thereto, declared their intention of becoming citizens of the United States, as now required by law, who are actual residents at the time of the passage of this act of that portion of said Territory which was declared by the proclamation of the President to be open for settlement on the 22d day of April, A. D. 1889, and of that portion of said Territory heretofore known as the Public Land Strip, shall be entitled to vote at the first election in the Territory. At every subsequent election the qualifications of voters and of holding office shall be such as may be prescribed by the Legislative Assembly, subject, however, to the following restrictions on the power of the Legislative Assembly, namely: First. The right of suffrage and of holding office shall be exercised only by citizens of the United States above the age of twenty-one years, and by persons of foreign birth above that age who have declared, on oath, before a competent court of record, as required by the naturalization laws of the United States, their intention to become citizens, and have taken an oath to support the Constitution of the United States, and who shall have been residents of the United States for the term of twelve months before the election at which they offer to vote. Second. There shall be no denial of the elective franchise or of holding office to a citizen on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude. Third. No officer, soldier, seaman, marine, or other person in the Army or Navy, or attached to troops in the service of the United States, shall be allowed to vote in said Territory by reason of being on service therein. Fourth. No person belonging to the Army or Navy shall be elected to, or hold, any civil office or appointment in said Territory.

SEC. 6. That the legislative power of the Territory shall extend to all rightful subjects of legislation not inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of the United States, but no law shall be passed interfering with the primary disposal of the soil; no tax shall be imposed upon the property of the United States, nor shall the lands or other property of non-residents be taxed higher than the lands or other property of residents, nor shall any law be passed impairing the right to private property, nor shall any unequal discrimination be made in taxing different kinds of property, but all property subject to the taxation shall be taxed in proportion to its value: Provided, That nothing herein shall be held to prohibit the levying and collecting license or special taxes in the Territory, from persons engaged in any business therein, if the legislative power shall consider such taxes necessary. Every bill which shall have passed the Council and the House of Representatives of said Territory shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor of the Territory. If he approve he shall sign it, but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it originated, who shall enter the objections at large upon their journal and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the vote of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays to be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within five days (Sunday excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the assembly, by adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

SEC. 7. That all township, district, and county officers not herein otherwise provided for, shall be appointed or elected, as the case may be, in such manner as shall be provided by the Governor and Legislative Assembly of the Territory. The Governor shall nominate, and, by and with the advice and consent of the Council, appoint all officers not herein otherwise provided for, and in the first instance the Governor alone may appoint all such officers, who shall hold their offices until the end of the first session of the Legislative Assembly; and he shall lay off the necessary districts for members of the Council and House of Representatives, and all other officers, and whenever a vacancy happens from resignation or death, during the recess of the Legislative Council, in any office which is filled by appointment of the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Council, the Governor shall fill such vacancy by granting a commission which shall expire at the end of the next session of the Legislative Council. It is further provided that the Legislative Assembly shall not authorize the issuing of any bond, scrip, or evidence of debt by the Territory, or any county, city, town, or township therein for the construction of any railroad.

SEC. 8. That no member of the Legislative Assembly shall hold or be appointed to any office which has been created or the salary or emoluments of which have been increased while he was a member, during the term for which he was elected and for one year after the expiration of such term, but this restriction shall not be applicable to members of the first Legislative Assembly provided for by this act; and no person holding a commission or appointment under the United States, except postmasters, shall be a member of the Legislative Assembly, or shall hold any office under the government of said Territory.

JUDICIAL POWER—HOW VESTED.

SEC. 9. That the judicial power of said Territory shall be vested in a Supreme Court, district courts, probate courts, and justices of the peace. The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and two Associate Justices, any two of whom shall constitute a quorum. They shall hold their offices for four years, and until their successors are appointed and qualified, and they shall hold a term annually at the seat of government of said Territory. The jurisdiction of the several courts herein provided for, both appellate and original, and that of the probate courts and of the justices of the peace, shall be as limited by law: Provided, That justices of the peace, who shall be elected in such manner as the Legislative Assembly may provide by law, shall not have jurisdiction of any matter in controversy when the title or boundaries of land may be in dispute, or where the debt or sum claimed shall exceed $100; and the said Supreme and district courts, respectively, shall possess chancery as well as common-law jurisdiction and authority for redress of all wrongs committed against the Constitution or laws of the United States or of the Territory affecting persons or property. Said Territory shall be divided into three judicial districts, and a district court shall be held in each county in said district thereof by one of the justices of the Supreme Court, at such time and place as may be prescribed by law, and each judge after assignment shall reside in the district to which he is assigned.

The Supreme Court shall define said judicial districts, and shall fix the times and places at each county seat in each district where the district court shall be held and designate the judge who shall preside therein. And the territory not embraced in organized counties shall be attached for judicial purposes to such organized county or counties as the Supreme Court may determine. The Supreme Court of said Territory shall appoint its own clerk, who shall hold his office at the pleasure of the court for which he is appointed. Each district court shall appoint its clerk, who shall also be the register in chancery, and shall keep his office where the court may be held. Writs of error, bills of exception, and appeals shall be allowed in all cases from the final decisions of said district courts to the Supreme Court under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, but in no case removed to the Supreme Court shall trial by jury be allowed in said court. Writs of error and appeals from the final decisions of said Supreme Court shall be allowed and may be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States in the same manner and under the same regulations as from the circuit courts of the United States, where the value of the property or the amount in controversy, to be ascertained by oath or affirmation of either party or other competent witness, shall exceed $5,000; and each of the said district courts shall have and exercise, exclusive of any court heretofore established, the same jurisdiction in all cases arising under the Constitution and laws of the United States as is vested in the circuit and district courts of the United States.

In addition to the jurisdiction otherwise conferred by this act, said district courts shall have and exercise exclusive original jurisdiction over all offenses against the laws of the United States committed within that portion of the Cherokee Outlet not embraced within the boundaries of said Territory of Oklahoma as herein defined, and in all civil cases between citizens of the United States residing in such portion of the Cherokee Outlet, or between citizens of the United States, or of any State or Territory, and any citizen of or person or persons residing or found therein, when the value of the thing in controversy, or damages or money claimed shall exceed $100; writs of error, bills of exceptions, and appeals shall in all such cases, civil and criminal, be allowed from the district courts to the supreme court in like manner, and be proceeded with in like manner as in cases arising within the limits of said Territory.

For all judicial purposes as herein defined such portion of the Cherokee Outlet not embraced within the boundaries of the Territory of Oklahoma shall be attached to, and be a part of one of the judicial districts of said Territory as may be designated by the Supreme Court. All acts and parts of acts heretofore enacted, conferring jurisdiction upon United States courts held beyond and outside the limits of the Territory of Oklahoma, as herein defined, as to all causes of action or offenses in said Territory, and in that portion of the Cherokee Outlet hereinbefore referred to, are hereby repealed, and such jurisdiction is hereby given to the Supreme and district courts in said Territory; but all actions commenced in such courts, and crimes committed in said Territory and in the Cherokee Outlet, prior to the passage of this act, shall be tried and prosecuted, and proceeded with until finally disposed of, in the courts now having jurisdiction thereof, as if this act had not been passed. The said Supreme and district courts of said Territory, and the respective judges thereof, shall and may grant writs of mandamus and habeas corpus in all cases authorized by law; and the first six days of every term of said courts, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, shall be appropriated to the trial of causes arising under the said Constitution and laws; and writs of error and appeals in all such cases shall be made to the Supreme Court of said Territory, as in other cases.

All offenses committed in said Territory, if committed within any organized county, shall be prosecuted and tried within said county, and if committed within territory not embraced in any organized county, shall be prosecuted and tried in the county to which such territory shall be attached for judicial purposes. And all civil actions shall be instituted in the county in which the defendant, or either of them, resides or may be found; and when such actions arise within any portion of said Territory not organized as a county, such actions shall be instituted in the county to which such territory is attached for judicial purposes, but any case, civil or criminal, may be removed, by change of venue, to another county.

SEC. 34. That original jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon the United States court in the Indian Territory to enforce the provisions of Title XXVIII, chapters 3 and 4, of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in said Territory, except the offenses defined and embraced in sections 2142 and 2143: Provided, That as to the violations of the provisions of section 2139 of said Revised Statutes, the jurisdiction of said court in the Indian Territory shall be concurrent with the jurisdiction exercised in the enforcement of such provisions by the United States courts for the western district of Arkansas and the eastern district of Texas: Provided, That all violations of said chapters 3 and 4 prior to the passage of this act shall be prosecuted in the said United States courts, respectively, the same as if this act had not been passed.

SEC. 36. That jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon the United States court in the Indian Territory over all controversies arising between members or citizens of one tribe or nation of Indians and the members or citizens of other tribes or nations in the Indian Territory, and any citizen or member of one tribe or nation who may commit any offense or crime against the person or property of a citizen or member of another tribe or nation, shall be subject to the same punishment in the Indian Territory as he would be if both parties were citizens of the United States. And any member or citizen of any Indian tribe or nation in the Indian Territory shall have the right to invoke the aid of said court therein for the protection of his person or property as against any person not a member of the same tribe or nation, as though he were a citizen of the United States.

SEC. 37. If any person shall, in the Indian Territory, open, carry on, promote, make or draw, publicly or privately, any lottery or scheme of chance of any kind or description, by whatever name, style or title the same may be denominated or known, or shall, in said Territory, vend, sell, barter or dispose of any lottery ticket or tickets, order or orders, device or devices, of any kind, for or representing any number of shares or any interest in any lottery or scheme of chance, or shall open or establish, as owner or otherwise, any lottery or scheme of chance in said Territory, or shall be in anywise concerned in any lottery or scheme of chance, by acting as owner or agent in said Territory for or on behalf of any lottery or scheme of chance, to be drawn, paid or carried on, either out of or within said Territory, every such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be fined for the first offense not exceeding $500, and for the second offense shall, on conviction, be fined not less than $500 and not exceeding $5,000, and he may be imprisoned, in the discretion of the court, not exceeding one year. And jurisdiction to enforce the provisions of this section is hereby conferred upon the United States court in said Indian Territory, and all persons therein, including Indians and members and citizens of Indian tribes and nations, shall be subject to its provisions and penalties.

SEC. 38. The clerk and deputy clerks of said United States court shall have the power within their respective divisions to issue marriage licenses or certificates and to solemnize marriages. They shall keep copies of all marriage licenses or certificates issued by them, and a record book in which shall be recorded all licenses or certificates after the marriage has been solemnized, and all persons authorized by law to solemnize marriages shall return the license or certificate, after executing the same, to the clerk or deputy clerk who issued it, together with his return thereon. They shall also be ex officio recorders within their respective divisions, and as such they shall perform such duties as are required of recorders of deeds under the said laws of Arkansas, and receive the fees and compensation therefor which are provided in said laws of Arkansas for like service: Provided, That all marriages heretofore contracted under the laws or tribal customs of any Indian nation now located in the Indian Territory are hereby declared valid, and the issue of such marriages shall be deemed legitimate and entitled to all inheritances of property or other rights, the same as in the case of the issue of other forms of lawful marriage: Provided further, That said chapter 103 of said laws of Arkansas shall not be construed so as to interfere with the operation of the laws governing marriage enacted by any of the civilized tribes, nor to confer any authority upon any officer of said court to unite a citizen of the United States in marriage with a member of any of the civilized nations until the preliminaries to such marriage shall have first been arranged according to the laws of the nation of which said Indian person is a member: And provided further, That where such marriage is required by law of an Indian nation to be of record, the certificate of such marriage shall be sent for record to the proper officer, as provided in such law enacted by the Indian nation.

SEC. 39. That the United States court in the Indian Territory shall have all the powers of the United States circuit courts or circuit court judges to appoint commissioners within said Indian Territory, who shall be learned in the law, and shall be known as United States commissioners; but not exceeding three commissioners shall be appointed for any one division, and such commissioners when appointed shall have, within the district to be designated in the order appointing them, all the powers of commissioners of circuit courts of the United States. They shall be ex officio notaries public, and shall have power to solemnize marriages. The provisions of chapter 91 of the said laws of Arkansas, regulating the jurisdiction and procedure before justices of the peace, are hereby extended over the Indian Territory; and said commissioners shall exercise all the powers conferred by the laws of Arkansas upon justices of the peace within their districts; but they shall have no jurisdiction to try any cause where the value of the thing or the amount in controversy exceeds $100.

Appeals may be taken from the final judgment of said commissioners to the United States court in said Indian Territory in all cases and in the same manner that appeals may be taken from the final judgments of justices of the peace under the provisions of said chapter 91. The said court may appoint a constable for each of the commissioner's districts designated by the court, and the constable so appointed shall perform all the duties required of constables under the provision of chapter 24 and other laws of the State of Arkansas. Each commissioner and constable shall execute to the United States, for the security of the public, a good and sufficient bond, in the sum of $5,000, to be approved by the judge appointing him, conditioned that he will faithfully discharge the duties of his office and account for all moneys coming into his hands, and he shall take an oath to support the constitution of the United States and to faithfully perform the duties required of him.

The appointments of United States commissioners by said court held at Muscogee, in the Indian Territory, heretofore made, and all acts in pursuance of law and in good faith performed by them, are hereby ratified and validated.

SEC. 40. That persons charged with any offense or crime in the Indian Territory, and for whose arrest a warrant has been issued, may be arrested by the United States marshal or any of his deputies, wherever found in said Territory, but in all cases the accused shall be taken, for preliminary examination, before the commissioner in the judicial division whose office or place of business is nearest by the route usually traveled to the place where the offense or crime was committed; but this section shall apply only to crimes or offenses over which the courts located in the Indian Territory have jurisdiction: Provided, That in all cases where persons have been brought before a United States Commissioner in the Indian Territory for preliminary examination, charged with the commission of any crime therein, and where it appears from the evidence that a crime has been committed, and that there is probable cause to believe the accused guilty thereof, but that the crime is one over which the courts in the Indian Territory have no jurisdiction, the accused shall not, on that account, be discharged, but the case shall be proceeded with as provided in section 1014 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

SEC. 41. That the Judge of the United States court in the Indian Territory shall have the same power to extradite persons who have taken refuge in the Indian Territory, charged with crimes in the States or other Territories of the United States, that may now be exercised by the Governor of Arkansas in that State, and he may issue requisitions upon Governors of States and other Territories for persons who have committed offenses in the Indian Territory, and who have taken refuge in such States or Territories.

SEC. 42. That appeals and writs of error may be taken and prosecuted from the decisions of the United States court in the Indian Territory to the Supreme Court of the United States in the same manner and under the same regulations as from the circuit courts of the United States, except as otherwise provided in this act.

SEC. 43. That any member of any Indian tribe or nation residing in the Indian Territory may apply to the United States court therein to become a citizen of the United States, and such court shall have jurisdiction thereof and shall hear and determine such application as provided in the statutes of the United States; and the Confederate Peoria Indians residing in the Quapaw Indian agency, who have heretofore or who may hereafter accept their land in severalty under any of the allotment laws of the United States, shall be deemed to be, and are hereby, declared to be citizens of the United States from and after the selection of their allotments, and entitled to all the rights, privileges, and benefits as such, and parents are hereby declared from that time to have been and to be the legal guardians of their minor children without process of court: Provided, That the Indians who become citizens of the United States under the provisions of this act do not forfeit or lose any rights or privileges they enjoy or are entitled to as members of the tribe or nation to which they belong.

SEC. 44. That the following sum, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be disbursed under the direction of the Attorney General of the United States, in the same manner that similar appropriations are disbursed in the other Territories of the United States, namely:
